WILLIAM LAWSON MACHMER, L.H.D.

There are only two or three people on the staff who can remember this campus without Dean Machmer. There is no one with a longer period of service.

He came to us in 1911 almost directly from Franklin and Marshall where he had majored in languages, particularly Latin and Greek. On the foundation of this preparation he became an inspired and inspiring teacher of mathematics. Soon he was requisitioned as Dean, but throughout his many years of administration he continued to meet at least one class of freshmen in the mathematics dustbin. He was a teacher of subject but more especially of students, a dean of regulations but more especially of personnel. He is gratefully remembered by a host of former students because of his patience and human insight, but it should be emphasized that he consistently helped to maintain scholastic and ethical standards which have made the University of Massachusetts the pride of her alumni. For over forty years he labored with us and for us, virtually without vacation, virtually without sick leave. His devotion to Alma Mater has been impressive. Moreover, since the creation of Academic Activities Board in 1916, he has been almost without interruption its chairman. Thus among the many honors conferred upon him perhaps none is giving him greater satisfaction than this: that three times, once in the beginning, once in the middle and now at the close of his long career, his students have dedicated to him this INDEX. # The University of Massachusetts

The University of Massachusetts was founded under the provisions of the Morrill Land Grant Act of Congress of 1862. This Act provided in each state for "the endowment for and maintenance of at least one college where the leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts... in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions of life."

Massachusetts accepted the provisions of the Morrill Act in 1863 by founding the new college at Amherst to be known as "Massachusetts Agricultural College." Chapter 75 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth states that "the leading object of the College shall be to teach subjects relating to agriculture and the mechanic arts so as to promote liberal and practical education. Its curriculum may include other scientific and classical studies and shall include military tactics."

The Trustees of Massachusetts Agricultural College were incorporated in 1863, and the officers were appointed in that year. It was not until October 2, 1867, however, that the College was formally opened to students. At that time there were four teachers on the campus and four wooden buildings. The enrollment increased during the first term and by December, 1867, forty-seven students had been accepted. From this modest beginning the College has grown steadily, both in number of students and scope of its work. In April, 1931, the name of the institution was formally changed by legislative enactment to Massachusetts State College. In 1939, the Trustees voted to award the A.B. degree as well as the B.S., which previously had been the only undergraduate degree of the College. In May, 1947, the College became the University of Massachusetts.

The University of Massachusetts now serves the Commonwealth in the three important fields of resident instruction, research, and extension. Since all three services are organized on the campus, students have the advantages that come from contact with persons carrying education to the state at large, with others conducting original investigations, as well as with those engaged in formal instruction.

The University offers four-year undergraduate instruction leading to the following degrees: Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science in Agricultural, Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering, Bachelor of Business Administration and Bachelor of Vocational Agriculture.

This instruction is assigned to the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Agriculture and Horticulture, Business Administration, Engineering, Home Economics, and to the Division of Physical Education.

The aim of the four-year course is to give as high a degree of proficiency in some particular branch of learning as is possible without sacrificing the breadth, knowledge, and training which should characterize a well-rounded college education.

Courses leading to advanced degrees are available in the Graduate School. Majors leading to the Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy degree may be taken in the following fields: Agronomy, Bacteriology, Botany, Chemistry, Economics, Psychology, Entomology, and Food Science.

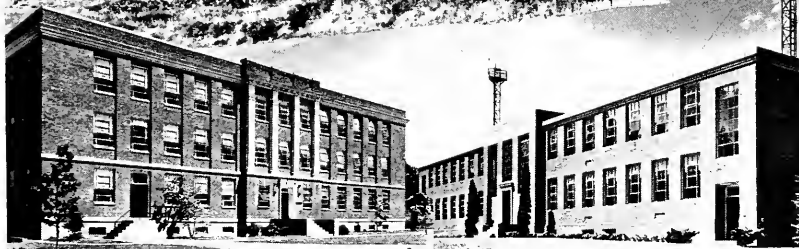

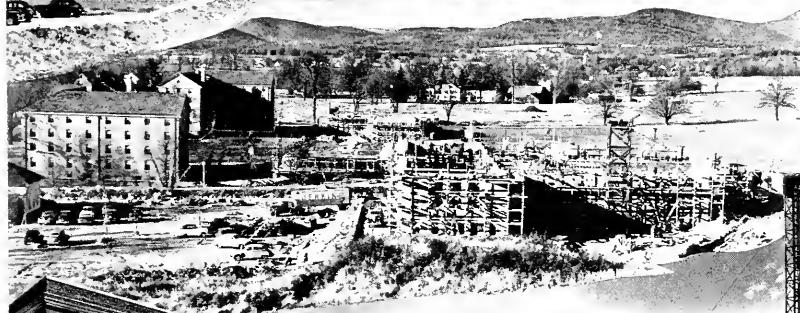

In addition, the following departments offer major work leading to a Master of Science degree only: Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, Animal Husbandry, Business Administration, Dairy Industry, Education, Engineering, Floriculture, Geology and Mineralogy, Home Economics, Mathematics, Olericulture, Physical Education (Men), Pom-ology, Poultry Science, Psychology, Wildlife Management, and Zoology.

Students may enroll as candidates for the degree of Master of Arts in the following fields: Economics, English, History, Philosophy, and Sociology, and Romance Languages.

The Stockbridge School of Agriculture was organized at the University in 1918 under the name of "The Two Year Course in Practical Agriculture." Its purpose was to meet the demand for shorter courses in agriculture which might be taken by high school graduates who were unable to take the four-year college course. In 1928 the School was given its present name in honor of Levi Stockbridge, the first professor of agriculture at the University and its fifth president. This program trains men and women primarily for the practice of farming or associated agricultural industries. As the two-year program is now organized a student may choose any one of eleven vocational courses, and a diploma is awarded for satisfactory completion of any two-year course.

The University of Massachusetts provides research and regulatory services in the fields of Agriculture and Horticulture through its Experiment Stations. A fund of scientific knowledge has been accumulated and research workers carry on constant experimentation.

APRIL

Today, our futures hinge critically on the outcome of world and national events. A review of student life which fails to recognize this fact would lack both awareness and maturity.

International tensions, efforts to maintain stability, and preparations to meet new aggressions have made this a year of confusion and uncertainty. The national government discovered that its position as leader of the western nations was often merely a thankless and uneasy honor. Criticism was abundant, both at home and from abroad.

... then idle hours

Yet pessimism was by no means universal; there were developments which inspired hope in many. The Schuman Plan offered economic integration of Western Europe as a practical supplement to the NATO military alliance. The very fact of the plan's inching progress, in defiance of the frequent crises that threatened to destroy it, encouraged those who put little trust in easy solutions to ancient problems.

In the background, striving to calm the excited swell of events in the midst of contradictory predictions of immediate war and peaceful coexistence, the voice of the United Nations was to be heard but faintly. At the present moment, neither the Korean War nor the Anglo-Iranian dispute has been reasoned away, but many who have termed themselves realistic still feel that bitter talk is a more acceptable alternative than expanded warfare.

But the most overpowering event of the year was undoubtedly the presidential election. The heated party debates at the national level were reflected on campus by the antics of irate partisans; friendships were strained as elements of reason, emotion, and inherited prejudice mingled to shatter all attempts to maintain calm poise and objectivity; the political button ("I Go Pogo") came into fashion, and favorite pin-ups gave way for massive posters.

In the meantime, governmental attempts to meet the prospects of a sustained policy of preparedness had their effects on student life here at Amherst. Individual student awareness varied from concern to indifference; personal adjustment to the uncertain times ranged from steady application — the so-called grind — to an all-absorbing preoccupation with having a good time.

Whatever the particular bent of the individual student's mind, University life continued along traditional lines. The library was still the campus social center, "grassing" maintained its claim as number one extra-curricular activity, the engineers continued to tramp through mud in the hinterlands — it was Spring in Amherst.

The University, in recognition of altered times, welcomed foreign students from eastern colleges to an International Weekend. The theme of the conference posed this very pertinent question: "Can Democracy Satisfy the Needs of the World Today?"

Meanwhile, the Greeks undertook the imposing task of entertaining the entire student body during Greek Week. The program began on a melodious note with the interfraternity sings, followed the next evening by intersorority song and declamation. Next, the unpredictable fraternity skits unfurled a program which ranged from low comedy to depictions of social injustice. There were laughing faces and a few blank ones, appreciative applause broken by enigmatic snickers, and moments of silence. The tension of the week's work was finally relieved at the Greek Ball where Freddy Dole reigned as Queen Helen.

The traditional "mass grass" event, Spring Day, was on trial as a result of past incidents of bacchanalianism. The beer bottle faced stiff competition from a lively program: the event's continuance was assured.

MAY

Strange stirrings were abroad in May. A simplified version of the treasure hunt but on a mass scale swept the campuses of the nation. Psychologists puzzled, college administrations worried, and the people of the nation in general wondered about the new fad — panty raids. The male population of the University responded with enthusiasm. Warm weather stimulated outdoor "studying" on the "Libe" lawn, and entering buildings for classes demanded thoroughly subdued wills.

In other respects, May activities were more sedate. At an impressive evening ceremony, new members of Isogon and the Scrolls were tapped. Dressed in caps and gowns, candles flickering, the junior and senior women solemnly filed down to College Pond to conclude the processional by setting the candles adrift.

Once again, many parents took advantage of Parents' Weekend to become better acquainted with the University. The more notable events of a full schedule were the Dairy Industry Show, intricate water patterns by the Naiads, and the well-received Roister Doister play, "Eastward in Eden."

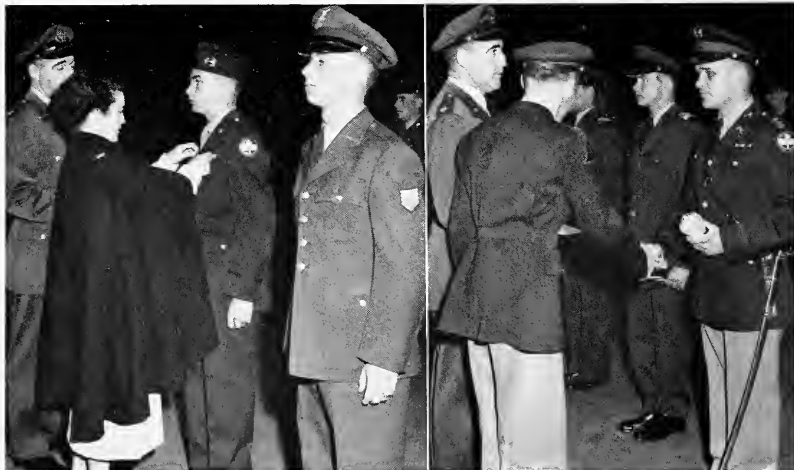

Student approval of campus publications was expressed by the referendum vote to increase the students' tax for the Collegian, Handbook, and INDEX.

Mardi Gras livened the Cage and expressed its international theme by such devices as rickshaw rides by attractive coolies from Butterfield. Pretty Carol Hartley, with international agreement, was chosen Queen of the Mardi Gras.

Shouts of incredulous delight proclaimed the Faculty Frantics a hilarious success. The dramatic skit (with a vengeance), "John Crabapple's Hour of Darkest Peril," reduced sober students to near hysteria. Familiar profs, in disguise, resorted to drastic means to convince the skeptical that teachers are indeed human.

Bowker Auditorium was filled — a rare sight — on two occasions: first, in tribute to Robert Frost, who had come to read his poetry and gently give advice; next, at the Senior Convocation of the class of '52, to hear senior Richard Lettis, in a speech on "Our University at the Crossroads," stress the critical need for undertaking a forceful program of improvement if we were to live up to our name of University.

May Memories

JUNE

The June exodus left the campus virtually deserted except for the departing seniors and a few underclassmen of a curious or sentimental nature. The full implication of graduation was unmistakably apparent. A favorite tree-arched pathway, the rolling expanse of lawn, glimmering reflections from College Pond — all came into sudden focus, sharpened by the impending sense of loss. Chapel chimes vibrated with an inner intensity that was almost painful. In the few days that remained seniors gathered together to officially conclude their university experience.

The Soph-Senior Hop, sponsored by the sophomore class, brought a momentary change of scene from Amherst to Hadley, where, at American Legion Hall,

"University at the Crossroads"

an innovation was introduced — the presentation of awards to the Man and Woman of the Year. Seniors Robert Kroeck and Barbara Flaherty were chosen in recognition of their achievement and their service to the University.

An overcast day which threatened rain seemed likely to postpone the Class Day program. Fortunately, the rain held off. The Hatchet Orations dominated the program as well as the interest of the audience. The Indian skit began in the traditional manner — one Indian defending the University, the second tearing it apart — but the antagonists soon joined forces and a fast moving satire resulted. Antiquated and inadequate University buildings, and the accumulated general grievances of four years provided the source material for a humorous and penetrating appraisal.

This farce represented the final expression of the year-long concern that seniors had shown for the future of the University. The extensive probing found its most effective expression in the editorial columns of the Collegian. The discouraging expedient that former staffs had been forced to adopt — offering a carton of cigarettes to letter writers — was no longer necessary as letters to the editor overflowed to page two in response to the issues raised.

The more prominent problems exposed were the near ridiculous inadequacy of library facilities, the pressing need for a new Liberal Arts building as well as a Student Union building, the difficulty of retaining good teachers and attracting good students, and the explosive question of student responsibility. Now the main burden of this program was being transferred to the shoulders of the underclassmen as seniors prepared for the graduation exercises.

A persistent rain frustrated the plans for an outdoor ceremony on the library lawn, and the indoor closeness of the Cage had to be substituted — to the disappointment of parents and friends as well as the University squirrel population.

Tired seniors were awakened with a start by the disturbingly realistic message of the guest speaker, Mr. Norman Cousins. With harsh vividness, he reminded the seniors of the horrors of the Korean War, and warned that the future called for awareness and fortitude. An end, a beginning — a college year was finished.

SEPTEMBER

The University's new year began rather uniquely — upperclassmen were welcomed to the campus by the freshman class. The new orientation program was responsible for the early arrival of the frosh, but tradition, aided by sophomore zeal, dictated their appearance: beanies, bibs, and stoic expressions.

Other changes were equally apparent. The campus lost some of its famed bucolic appearance by the conversion of the hayfields into trim lawns. Construction on the new dining hall and the two girls' dormitories was well advanced, while Baker Hall was open for occupancy. Subsequent student agitation for mountain-climbing credits met an unsympathetic refusal.

The innumerable ditches and holes, daily multiplying all over the campus, looked more like the scars on a miniature battlefield than the prosaic preparations for a more intricate piping system.

That controversial and much-abused personage, Mettawampe, was still at large and his whereabouts strangely unknown. But tentative conjecture was stifled by the absorption of registration. Seniors and juniors went about the business seemingly assured; sophomores, conscious of their new standing, affected nonchalance... determined not to be mistaken for freshmen; and the frosh themselves, slightly awed, apparently excited, and greatly confused, unknowingly provided the center of attention.

All previous enrollment records were surpassed by a student body which totaled 3210; the freshman class reached the new high of 1050

members; and the largest female enrollment in our history brought the man-woman ratio down to 2-1 — and intensified speculation.

Officially, the University year commenced with the Convocation ceremony in the Cage. The guest speaker, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, acknowledged at the outset of her talk that security was not for our generation, but she expressed her faith in the United Nations and its mission of fostering international unity. Although many in the audience found it difficult to share her faith, some felt that there was still justification for hope.

Routine quickly set in during the remaining days of September. Somehow the long book lines did not seem quite as formidable as in years past, but C-Store coffee still defied description, and the first all-campus dance was the same crowded and jogging affair. The month ended with a flare-up of the vexing problem of an acceptable liquor policy for the fraternities.

OCTOBER

Vivid slashes of yellow and orange, the snap of brittle leaves underfoot, autumn asserting its presence by an elusive sharpness borne on the gently lingering breeze — when but in October does a tree possess the majesty to jolt us from our self-imprisoning concerns?

As if to join nature in her exuberance, the student body plunged frantically into elaborate preparations for the annual Homecoming Parade. Eerie flickering torches, blaring horns, and hoarse voices accompanied the twenty-five floats through the Amherst streets. Theta Chi and Thatcher won top honors among floats that left the local citizenry agog. Then on to the near hysteria of the rally at the Cage and the devious proddings of the inimitable pair, Shelly Saltman and Frank Donovan. The enthusiasm of the cheerleaders lent plausibility to the evoked feeling that no one could possibly beat our football team! Finally, music and relaxation at the commuter-sponsored Goblin's Frolic.

But October was also a time of more serious considerations. Students elected new senators and their respective class officers, fraternity rushing commenced with Round Robins, and a sample campus poll taken by the Collegian revealed Eisenhower leading Stevenson by more than 2 to 1. The presidential contest, daily more acrimonious, began to sound like a "souped-up" historical debate: Lincoln, Hoover, the bread lines — ad infinitum. Students momentarily disregarded more time-worn topics as political talk dominated the conversation—in strange places and at even more singular hours.

Mt. Toby enthusiasts launched another workday and picnic, while the new campus service fraternity, How's the water?

Alpha Phi Omega, quietly went about constructing a bridge across Roaring Stream. The Campus Chest Drive commenced, and the Concert Association presented the first concert of the year, the Columbus Boychoir.

In a more solemn mood — in a manner more expressive than words — students indicated their sorrow for the untimely death of a classmate by dedicating the Blood Drive to the memory of Carole Anderson '53.

Faint rumblings issued from Goodell where the new librarian, Hugh Montgomery, was busily engaged in improving lighting and seating facilities while instituting an orientation program. Moreover, the good will of the student addicts was won by the legalization of smoking in the lobby.

Thirty-one campus beauties (slightly apprehensive) were "presented" to the ROTC units (highly appreciative) at Bowker Auditorium in the preliminaries for the title of Honorary Colonel.

NOVEMBER

In many respects November seemed a mere hangover from October, a transitional period between the exit of Autumn and Nature's preparation for her strenuous winter exertions. Much of student activity seemed in temporary suspension, a state of pause in anticipation of winter sports. Meanwhile, students unconsciously subjected themselves to routine until vacation provided physical escape. The luxury of reverie, too often disturbed by inopportune exams and taxing research papers, but happily recaptured with the aid of a few brews, mellowed many and made life bearable.

November also witnessed a period of crisis and inner turmoil for many students, especially the freshmen. The necessity for rapid adjustment, the impersonal nature of things which put the emphasis on individual resources, the seemingly endless scramble and the disconcerting failures, all heightened the feeling of futility and overshadowed the accomplishments. Perhaps it was because the real gains were seldom seen and were difficult to weigh and measure.

At this point, the upperclassmen's hollow reassurance that the difficulties would work themselves out always seemed so meaningless, perhaps because the process of maturing was so difficult to explain. It was an experience that all of us had gone through, and all knew that the purging was essential, the adjustment worthwhile, and the new inner discipline the basis of a more substantial development.

In a somewhat similar but enlarged vein the national government underwent its own crisis. A new administration was elected, the Republican Party was in power, and Dwight D. Eisenhower faced the imposing task of turning his spirit of decisiveness and integrity into concrete reality. By many the bitter words and the disappointment of defeat had to be set aside; the uncertainties of today and tomorrow were much too pressing to allow indulgence in apprehensive, partisan loyalty.

Sock'er

Ike Won — We Lost

The illusion of a "brave new world" seemed to some for the moment irreparably shattered, but was there not still hope, through individual effort, for this battered, old relic of ours?

Apart from these considerations, the 40th Annual Horticultural Show blossomed forth with a pleasing contrast of sleek modern garden portrayals and nostalgic touches of rusticity. Weeks of hard work by students were rewarded by the evident appreciation of the spectators, many of whom had travelled long distances to see the displays. Chosen Queen of the Flowers, Shirley Stevens embellished the blooms with an added lustre.

Student life was treated to another welcomed diversion by the Campus Varieties "2000 A.D." Written and directed by Wilburt Richter '53 (an accomplished actor in his own right) this musical satire presented a mocking survey of the present and then joked its way into the future with the enthusiastic encouragement of its audience.

DECEMBER

Commission granted

For many, Dean's Saturday was probably the most thought-about day of December. The particular state of mind of the students as they anticipated this unfortunate day of mental torture depended upon many factors—things left undone taking undue prominence. No other event better illustrated the variety of approaches among students to university life. Those of a more apprehensive frame of mind had spent long hours in a sustained studying effort in order to enjoy this day with clear and untroubled minds, while others philosophically gambled on suffering through one day of acute anxiety in exchange for many luxurious days of untroubled leisure.

The more fortunate freshman girls (those with the coveted 70 average) were rewarded for their efforts with permission to leave the "cloisters" in the evening. Now they were on their own in this cold, cruel world and might participate in the night life at the library (giggling allowed), and might quaff their coffee with a cigarette chaser at Durant's. Could this be the end of high-school days?

The tone of the month changed abruptly as students and assorted stragglers listened to the strains of the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra and watched its highly responsive conductor, Erich Leinsdorf. And as if to make the month artistically complete, the Roister Doisters presented "The Silver Whistle." Many fine individual performances and the generally polished presentation provided an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

At the annual All Sports Banquet the University recognized its most prominent athletes. Awards were presented to George Howland and Noel Reebenacker for their outstanding play in football, to Steve Lapton in soccer, and to Harry Aldrich in cross country.

Then it was spit and polish as ROTC cadets "shaped-up" for the Military Ball, the first formal dance of the year. A slow, shuffling cadence was provided by Ray McKinley, and Honorary Colonel Sue Moynahan took over the command. Could this be the military life of which we had heard so much?

December Melodies

JANUARY

Campus events during the month of January seemed almost as indecisive as the weather. Perplexed students vainly attempted to predict the day's temperature by peering out of their windows in the early morning. The more fortunate students (those who had clean windows and were capable of seeing through them in the morning hours) soon realized the futility of their efforts. It was exasperating to wear heavy clothes in the warm afternoons, and yet with a light outfit one ran the risk of being blown away by the cross-campus wind. Skating enthusiasts seized scattered opportunities to skate on College Pond, and despite the wondering glances of their less vigorous brethren they seemed to be enjoying a great time.

International relations over a cup of coffee

This was also the time for the frosh to make the big decision regarding fraternities. Pledge Chapel, when choice and election were made, was met and passed. Dramatizing this event was the re-kindled controversy concerning the problems of limited space at fraternity dances and the existing rule governing mixed weekend meals. The difficulty centered, once again, around the basic problem of student self-responsibility. The Student Life Committee revealed its conservative position by objecting to darkened dance floors and its insistence that chaperones be present at mixed weekend meals.

Snow job

A rather violent reaction to this view was voiced in the editorial column of the Collegian. The existing rules were interpreted as an affront to student integrity, and the alternate plan of opening all rooms to the girls at the fraternity dances was suggested. Interested observers of the controversy were puzzled by the extreme stands of both parties, but following the traditional campus fashion, most of them remained silent. It looked as if the status quo would be preserved intact.

The Baker Snack Bar, after several false starts and hesitations, was finally opened — coeds allowed. Valley dwellers speculated on whether the mountain air would improve the quality of campus coffee. At the older and more aristocratic social center, the "Libe," a moving program was underway in an attempt to provide space for the annual addition of 10,000 books. To the initiated (and somewhat cynical) this seemed a terrible waste of energy, since helpful students have traditionally taken care of this problem by thoughtfully relieving the library of its books. Meanwhile, nature lovers breathlessly followed the progress of a proposed bill to set up a School of Fisheries at the University: to provide fit company for the neglected cow and chicken population.

In the midst of the reawakened speculation concerning flying saucers that swept the nation, Dwight D. Eisenhower was inaugurated as the 34th President of the United States. The nations of the world awaited the new President's policy and approach to the pressing world problems. At the same time, an insight into the complexities that face the government in only one sphere of activity, European unity, was afforded those who heard Dr. Karl Lowenstein lecture on "American Policy in Europe."

Student concern with national affairs was temporarily suspended as the more immediate problem of final exams darkened the horizon. The "lost week" of the university year was again the mad scramble of cramming, drawn-out yawns, frequent and furtive escapes to the "flicks," a few brews (What did I take that course for anyway?), and finally vacation and sleep...oh, blessed sleep.

"Pardon the Inconvenience"

FEBRUARY

The most significant development during the month of February was undoubtedly the announcement that Governor Herter had proposed a substantial cut in the University's operating budget. This disclosure deeply disturbed students who were aware of the inadequacy of the existing physical plant to accommodate the present student enrollment. Moreover, as President Van Meter pointed out to the House Ways and Means Committee, the cut would probably necessitate the firing of eighteen temporary instructors at a time when increased enrollments at the University were expected.

Perhaps even more crucial than the threat to the University's long-range expansion program was the realization that this action might mean further delay in the construction of several essential buildings. The Student Senate, in an effort to clarify the implications of the proposed cut for the future of the University, voted to have a committee investigate the entire matter. The committee's first action was to invite President Van Meter to speak before the Student Senate.

Meanwhile, another issue involving University expansion — the proposal to erect a state-supported medical and dental school — was under discussion throughout the state. In this case, the issues were less clean-cut, and confusion was heightened by conflicting reports on the plan's progress. Many students were unable to decide whether the plans were in the final or the initial stage. Legislative disagreement on the actual need for the new school and the controversy concerning its location seemed to indicate that nothing would be done for some time.

A pleasant diversion from these concerns was afforded students by one of the most popular concerts of the year, the Boston Pops Orchestra under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. This event was followed by another touch of seriousness when Dr. Jean Paul Mather, the new provost of the University, emphasized the search for values in his talk on "Education in a Free Society."

Snowflake Queen of '53

Water wheels

Socially, the month was dominated by Winter Carnival activities. Crowned Queen of the Week's festivities at the Coronation Ceremony conducted in front of Memorial Hall was Jane Rex. This was followed by a Float Parade (and cold feet) through Amherst. After the parade, student participants thawed out to the music of a Chorale concert at Bowker Auditorium, while at the Cage the Springfield Gymnasts dramatically proved that spinach was indeed a stimulating vegetable. The Snowflake Ball, held again at the Cage, featured the music of Elliot Lawrence and was the highlight of the Week. Some of the other activities included skating, informal dances, a Naiad exhibition, a jazz concert, and finally "Shelley's Spectacle." The only flaw in the Snow Week program was the lack of snow which effectively prevented the construction of the popular snow sculptures.

In the inter-class play competition the Junior Class Actors won first place honors with their presentation of Suppressed Desires. The Senior Class was second with Tony Sat on a Wall, an original play written (in the early hours of many a sleepless night) by Abe Newman and Mario Bruni.

MARCH

"The Vagabond King"

March marks the end of the INDEX review of the year. Although in many respects a time of international turbulence, national uncertainty, and student confusion, this year has also been familiar to students in its traditional occurrences. Students continued to overcut and received the inevitable "invite" from the Dean's Office, the rallies and float parades were as exuberant and hazing as controversial as ever, the parties and bull sessions... occasionally broken by a provoking lecture... cramming... Draper hash and C-Store coffee... elusive WMUA... neglected Cage workouts... the "busy" women's dorm phone... bewildered frosh... the Rope Pull... thrashing in College Pond... icy sidewalk numerals... neglected sleep... cigarette hangover... Dean's Saturday... I.D. cards: these traditional elements have made this another normal year at the University.

INDEX

The Editors of the 1953 INDEX have attempted to present, in these pages, a reasonably accurate portrayal of university life. The formula employed to realize this objective was quite simple: gather together a large number of people to participate and the result would undoubtedly be a view, comprehensive in scope and enlivened by the many different points of view.

The danger in this procedure has been the chance that we, in our enthusiasm, might overshoot our intended goal and end up with a book that was a mere hodgepodge of confusion. In recognition of this danger we have chosen as our theme the confusion of the present world scene and the uncertainty with which each one of us must face the future.

For the Editors and the staff the creation of the INDEX has meant a great deal of work, worry, and rush — things quickly forgotten at the end with the satisfaction of the finished product.

The Quarterly this year struggled against undergraduate apathy in an attempt to bring to the student body a magazine containing mature and intelligent writing of the highest literary quality possible.

As usual, the Quarterly attempted, principally through publication, and secondarily through methods like literary contests, to encourage and stimulate creative writing and sound undergraduate literary activity.

As deadlines approached, the Quarterly staff could be seen rushing out of the Memorial Hall office to search the campus for budding Hemingways and DuMauriers, and praying that another maroon and white covered issue would appear on time and be up to the usual standard. They accepted all contributions, carefully considered each, and published all those of sufficient merit.

In its appeal for material to all departments of the University the Quarterly has aimed at greater variety and universal popularity on campus.

COLLEGIAN

Inspired by the watchwords, "Accuracy, Accuracy, Accuracy," Collegian staff members have dedicated themselves to serving the campus community.

The Monday and Wednesday scene in the Collegian office may be described as organized confusion. Staff members learn to concentrate under the most difficult conditions. Noisy typewriters, the constantly ringing telephone, and the continuous comings and goings of all kinds of people from Adelpia members to the freshman who lost her wallet, make the scene one of feverish activity.

Its motto — "A Free and Responsible Press" — marks the goal of the newspaper. It is uncensored by the Administration and questions of policy are entirely under student jurisdiction.

To initiate prospective newspapermen into the perils of journalistic endeavor, a training program must be completed; of such stuff as the meek cub reporter is the executive editor made. The conversion process means time and work, but the thrill of being in the midst of campus activity is well worth the effort.

The Handbook is published annually and contains concise and pertinent information on all phases of our college life. Its contents include a calendar listing all important scheduled events of the school year, and a campus map which has helped freshmen to familiarize themselves with their strange and new surroundings. A copy of the Handbook is sent in the summer to the freshmen so they may have ample time to acquaint themselves with the academic and social activities awaiting them.

Positions on the Handbook staff are open to members of all classes except the senior. The editor and assistant editor are chosen by the members of the present Handbook board upon recommendations submitted by the faculty advisor, Mrs. Martha Wright. Each staff member is assigned to a particular department and is responsible for all facts pertaining to that division. The staff is chosen early in the school year to assure adequate and complete coverage of life at the University.

The gone music makers

Music . . . Music . . .

The University Dance Band, an eighteen-piece organization, was directed this year by Bernie Reisman. Fortified with a repertoire of over 160 selections, this versatile group played for hundreds of student couples (and a few stags) at campus dances. Perhaps the most characteristic feature of the band was its range. The group's ability to play all types of musical styles was demonstrated by its performance at the Winter Carnival Jazz Concert.

The Dance Band made several off-campus appearances as well. The most notable was a concert for the Bradley Field Air Base.

UNIVERSITY DANCE BAND

High steppin'

Enjoying its most successful season this year, the Marching Band appeared at seven of the eight football games and made its television debut at the Tufts game on Nov. 15. Breaking from tradition, they utilized hesitation and waltz steps and rapid flank movements while playing the latest hit songs. Under the leadership of Drum Major Don Pearse and Manager Arthur Groves, this 50-piece organization performed at four home and three away games and at pep rallies. The half-time routines included, for the first time this year, rapid-fire letter changes and animated designs. The Marching Band is under the direction of Joseph Contino, music instructor.

MARCHING BAND

The 35-piece University Concert Band, a select group of wind instrumentalists, presented three concerts this year. These were the annual Winter Concert on January 18, a concert on March 8, and the annual University Parents' Weekend Concert on May 3. Presenting varied programs of popular marches, current concert favorites, and the finest original concert band music, this group was under the direction of Joseph Contino. Soloists this year were Bernard Reisman, who was also student director; Arthur Groves, manager and baritone horn player; and Mr. Contino, clarinet soloist.

The Operetta Guild's production of "The Vagabond King" in March 1953 was performed to a sell-out audience for five nights. After six months of planning, rehearsing, and hard work with a technical, production, and musical staff of more than three hun-

The Guild does not exist only to present musical plays, musical comedies, operas, and operettas; rather, it uses these media to provide stimulation for the greatest possible number of students to use their practical intelligence in the many fields of theatrical art.

"The Vagabond King," a musical based on the play, "If I Were King," is the story of Francois

Villon, the leader of the rabble of Paris. In French history Villon is remembered as a "poet, scholar, pickpocket, and scoundrel." Villon's boast that he would make a better king than Louis XI was overheard by the king, who gave him a chance to prove it with the proviso that he trade his life for this opportunity. As king for "four and twenty hours" he drove out the attacking Burgundians and saved France and the throne for Louis. Just as Villon is to be hanged Lady Katherine announces to the court that she will surrender her lands and titles to save Villon's life.

In May the World Collegiate Première of Kurt Weill's classic,

"Lost In The Stars," a poignant musical play based on "Cry the Beloved Country," was presented by the Chorale. Technical and production resources of the Guild were utilized to stage the show.

The plot revolves around the disillusionment of Stephen Kumalo, a Negro minister whose son is accused of murdering a white man; the scene is South Africa, where racial problems are currently making world headlines.

The 1952-1953 season saw one of our finer campus traditions revived to fill the ever-increasing demand for a small group to entertain at banquets, meetings, and conventions. The University Statesmen were completely reorganized; their program was restyled, and new personnel were brought in to make the double quartet from the University of Massachusetts respected and admired by their many listeners. Their program ranged from favorite college songs to sea chanteys and to hits from musical plays. The Statesmen gave many musical programs on and off campus, appeared at concerts and on tour with the Chorale and participated in The Vagabond King as the Scotch Archers.

This year the Chorale finished its sixth season under the direction of its founder, Doric Alviani. The Chorale has enjoyed steady growth in popularity throughout New England where it has appeared in the last few seasons. In January, the group sang at the Victory Dinner for Governor Herter in Boston; in February, two exchange concerts were given with the Glee Club from Worcester Polytechnical Institute; later in the year appearances at different conventions highlighted the season.

"Democracy in music" is a by-word with the Chorale. Its broad repertoire included selections from folk-songs and spirituals, as well as selections from operas and operettas. In line with developing new media in the concert field, several selections were performed by dancers with choral background.

In collaboration with the Operetta Guild, the Chorale has continued to make a lasting mark in the collegiate theatrical field. In March, the eastern collegiate première of Rudolf Friml's The Vagabond King was presented; in May, the world collegiate première of Kurt Weill's Lost in the Stars.

During the school year, two tours of Massachusetts cities and towns with appearances in high schools and many single concerts throughout New England brought the Chorale to the successful end of the 1952-1953 season.

HARMONAIRES

The Roister Doisters, the University dramatic society, had as its fall presentation The Silver Whistle, a charming comedy about old people who wanted to regain their youth. Mario Bruni had the leading part in the play and did a commendable piece of acting in the role of Oliver Erwenter, the philosophical tramp. Other members of the Theatre Set included in the play were Shirley Tuttle, Albert List, Jo Ashe, Marguerite Follett, and Mel Tucker.

During Winter Carnival Week, the Roister Doisters sponsored the Inter-Class Plays. The Junior play, Suppressed Desire, came in first. This represented the third time the class of '54 won the first place honors.

ROISTER DOISTERS

The Senior class won the second place with its original play, Tony Sat on a Wall, written by Mario Bruni and Abe Newman.

The "best actress" award went to Barbara Summers for her portrayal of Constance in the Senior play, while Marino Grimaldi, the irate husband in the Junior play, was selected as the best male actor.

For the Mothers' Day Weekend the Roister Doisters presented their spring production of Elmer Rice's comedy about Manhattan, Two on an Island. The well received show with its cast of over forty was directed by Arthur E. Niedeck.

Highlighted by the January appearance of the Boston "Pops" Orchestra, the Concert Association's 1952-53 series proved one of the most popular in several years.

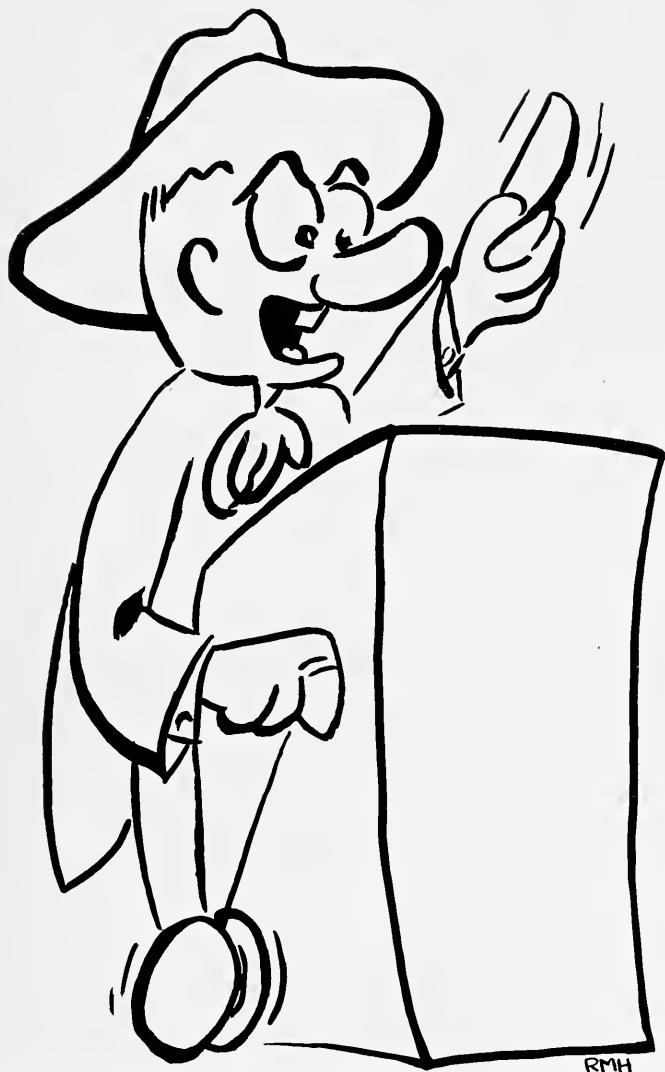

The Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra returned and strengthened its reputation as the campus' musical favorite, while the other two concerts departed from the traditional to present the Columbus Boy Choir and later a joint concert by baritone Conrad Thibault and the Angelairens, a harp quintet.

STUDENT LIFE

The Student Senate, representative voice of the student body, began its activities early in October. Senators were elected by the residents of each dormitory, the commuters, the fraternities, the sororities and the married students. These were apportioned on the basis of one representative for every eighty students, with the newly-opened Baker freshman dorm entitled to four Senators. An initial organizational meeting was held on October 14, presided over by Acting-President Tom Bott. Nominations for Senate officers were made and on the following week elections were held. The successful candidates were: John Carroll, president; Rita Katz, vice-president; Beverly Burns, secretary, and John Miller, treasurer.

Appointments to the standing committees were made at the next weekly meeting. These included committees on finance, activities, curriculum, public relations, athletics, buildings and grounds, boarding halls, student life and elections. At the same time, John Heintz was elected by the Senate to head a special Constitutional Revision Committee, whose stated purpose was to streamline and clarify the existing student government structure. The work of this committee progressed satisfactorily and by mid-spring a revised constitution was ready to submit to the students for their approval. With all positions filled, the Senate was ready to begin the year's work.

Of primary importance was a $3,000 surplus in Student Government funds which had accumulated over the past few years. Activities supported by the Senate had kept pace with the rapid growth of the University. Radio Station WMUA made a radical change from carrier wave to 10-watt FM broadcasting. The Winter Carnival Committee was hit by rising costs. Both organizations came before the Senate for additional appropriations. After investigation and reduction by the Finance Committee, appropriations of $1055.51 and $300 respectively were passed by the Senate. Another appropriation of $345 was made to equip the newly instituted Student News Bureau and to provide a fund for photographs to publicize student activities.

Other activities of the Senate included soliciting contributions for the Campus Chest Drive, the promotion and sale of the University of Massachusetts calendar, and the sponsoring of a concert for the benefit of the Chorale.

Committees worked on various projects such as the establishment of a two-meal ticket system at the University dining halls, cheaper text books and better campus roads and sidewalks.

The Academic Activities Board is composed of faculty members and the student business managers of each academic organization. This board acts in the interest of the students and numbers among its functions the determination of financial and administrative policies and the handling of the awards of service insignia. Groups represented on this board include all publications, all music groups, and Roister Doisters. Student members of the board act as representatives of the students in voicing undergraduate opinion.

Eight students and eight faculty members comprise the University Committee on Student Life. This committee makes recommendations to the Administration concerning student extracurricular activities. An effort is made to maintain a proper balance between social and academic life on campus. Student members of the committee and social chairmen of student organizations keep the committee in close contact with undergraduate opinion at all times. Student-faculty cooperation on the committee was complete and effective.

WOMEN'S JUDICIARY

Manley.

The Women's Judiciary Board is composed of five women students who have been elected by vote of all women students on campus. Rules and regulations concerning the conduct of women students are interpreted and enforced by this part of the University's General Court. Its primary concern is with those cases which are above the jurisdiction of the women's dormitories. In cases requiring constitutional interpretation, the Women's Judiciary holds a joint session with the Men's division.

The Men's division of the University General Court of Justice interprets and enforces regulations concerning the conduct of men students. In a separate court it handles traffic violations. For decisions which pertain to constitutional questions rather than to those concerning misconduct of students, the Men's and Women's Judiciaries hold a joint meeting. The Student Senate co-operates with both groups in the making of regulations and in setting up rules for meetings of the boards.

Religious Groups

Hillel Foundation

Serving the religious, social and intellectual needs of Jewish students, Hillel Foundation provides opportunities for interfaith co-operation. The year was begun by a reception and dance for freshmen and continued with Friday night services, classes in Hebrew, Yiddish, and Jewish thought.

Standing: Hettinger, Velleman
Sitting: Feldberg, Stahl, Bass

Standing: Lupien, Driscoll
Sitting: Shannon, Mansfield, Redman

Student Christian Association

The Student Christian Association plays an active part in campus life by welcoming students of all faiths, working with the denominational groups, and with Chaplain's Council. Highlights of the year included Freshmen Cabin Party, popular day conferences, weekly coffee hours, and vesper services.

Standing: Raymond
Sitting: MacLachlan, Skillings, Rev. Temple

Newman Club

The Newman Club welcomed any student who wanted to become acquainted with the cultural, social, educational, and religious aspects of Catholicism. This year for the first time Bishop Christopher J. Weldon visited the campus to speak at Bowker Auditorium. A series of movies was also given.

CLUBS

Standing: Spencer, Hunter
Sitting: Ryder, Fisher

Lutheran Club

Discussions and social hours for a closer fellowship of Lutheran students on campus were held twice monthly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Weidhaas of Amherst. Regional conferences for Lutheran students were attended during the year with the U. of M. being ably represented.

Standing: Weeden
Sitting: VanderPol, Pelling, Felton

Judson Fellowship

Both University and Amherst students have taken part in the Judson program for Baptist college-age young people. An attractive diversity of activities — discussions, a fall retreat, Halloween square dance, conferences, and a church supper to aid a Burmese student kept the members busy.

Standing: Steigleder, Buczala
Seated: Rev. Leverenz, Burrows

Wesley Foundation

Wesley Foundation has met the needs of Methodist students on campus by its concentration on applying Christianity to their religious, social, and economic problems. Monthly social events during the winter, and the annual regional conference at Camp Casowasco in New York during the summer, help to round out a program.

Channing Club

Beginning with an informal supper and closing with a worship service, the Channing Club of Unitarians and other religious liberals has taken part in programs of panels with questions posed by freshmen, discussions of college dating and marriage, and questions relating psychology and religion to personality.

Standing: Holbrook, Rouillard
Sitting: Andrews, Dresser, Avery

Canterbury Club

As part of the National Canterbury Association, the Episcopal students on campus keep in contact with their church and reaffirm their Christian faith. The group meets frequently with other organizations and especially welcomes those of Greek Orthodox faith to join with its members in the search for religious values.

Murch, Vaughan

Edwards Fellowship

The Edwards Fellowship welcomes students of Congregational and Presbyterian denominations, as well as those with no church affiliation, to discover the way to a better Christian life. Recognizing the needs of others, the group collected old textbooks and picked apples to earn money to send aid to those in most need.

The Chrysostom Club

The Chrysostom Club for Orthodox students met at Old Chapel on the first Thursday of the month.

The program included a vesper service and speaker or a discussion. A picnic and dance highlighted their social activities as the group worked to plan meetings which fulfill the interests and needs of the students.

The first floor of Butterfield Hall was the home of La Maison Française, which boasted 16 members this year. While intent on perfecting their ability to speak fluent French, the students sought to broaden their background in French culture, and in their salon appeared an interesting assortment of French books, magazines, and records.

A gay Parisian touch came to the campus when members presented Le Café Rendezvous, an evening of typically French entertainment which included a specially staged version of the can-can.

German Club

Informality characterized the meetings of the German Club, where students and faculty explored Germany by means of music, movies, and lectures by guest speakers. Through these media the students come to a better understanding of German customs and traditions, and used the opportunity to improve their speaking of the language.

Standing: Bernatowicz, Petrillo
Sitting: Munch, Wolk, Georgantas

French Club

The French Club has had an active year with its programs for getting the students better acquainted with each other and with French customs and traditions.

Its major event of the year was the annual Christmas Pageant, which attracted a large student audience.

Standing: Burnham, Lea, Schindler
Sitting: Stonex, Dagata, Wilbur

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club was organized with the purpose of supplementing the study of the language with the learning of Spanish and Latin-American customs. The programs consist of skits, songs, and outside speakers, and the group puts on a Spanish play each year.

The club's Christmas party was the highlight of its activities.

Standing: Sondrini, Aprile
Sitting: Merritt, Vest

CLUBS

Standing: Maroni, Krikorian
Sitting: Mr. Allen, Craft, Romasco

Chaplain's Council

The Chaplain's Council is the coordinating body for all Protestant activities on campus. Several of the activities which it sponsored were Christmas Vespers, Lenten Communion, the Religious Convocation, and the Christian Activities Handbook. Dr. Temple advises the group.

International Relations Club

The IRC, like the nation, was temporarily diverted from its normal considerations by the fascination of the presidential elections. A running tally of election returns, followed up by a panel discussion, indicated this interest.

After November, the club recovered and turned to international problems.

Rev. Temple, Boyden, Felton

Standing: Tonks, Mapes, Rahnioli

Economics Honorary Society

The Economics Honorary Society met for the purpose of helping Economics honor students and graduate students to prepare and plan their theses. The Society is composed of seniors and juniors who have an average of 80 or above, as well as graduate students.

Psychology Club

The Psychology Club met to discuss informally the various phases of psychology and psychiatry. Speakers were invited to talk to the members about their favorite subject, job opportunities, and progress in new developments and discoveries.

Standing: Lee, Sanders
Sitting: Mr. Lindstrom, Stone, Serman

Business Administration Club

Once a month students of finance, accounting, management, and marketing, met to discuss practical solutions to major problems in the respective fields. They often attended lectures on such topics as advertising and labor relations. This club has been successful in stimulating the interest of its students and faculty.

Titlebaum, Sobala, Hyman

Sociology Club

The "Soc" Club helped sociology majors and others interested in sociology to become better acquainted with each other at its informal monthly meetings. It sponsored speakers on job opportunities and had panel discussions and films to vary its programs.

Standing: Warren
Sitting: Cohen, Bristol, O'Brien

Standing: Farin, Southworth, Cross

Attempting to foster increased knowledge of medical subjects, the Pre-Med Club reviewed many new developments in the medical field. The group met once a month at Fernald Hall and a varied program was presented. Speakers who were specialists in their field led the club in interesting discussion periods. Movies were also part of the program.

Under the guidance of the officers and the advisor, Dr. Gilbert Woodside, the club has not only fulfilled the needs of the prospective medical students but also has presented programs of interest to the entire University.

With those who know anatomy best, it's pre-meds 2 to 1

PRE-MED CLUB

Math Club

Have you seen the mathematical brain-busters in the Collegian? The math club creates these gems and gives prizes to each weekly winner. The members themselves hear speakers on opportunities in math. They also sponsor an annual contest for high school students and give awards for the best grades.

Prevey, Fisher, Mr. Johansson

Home Ec Club

This year's great event for the Home Ec Club was the planning and publishing of its own newspaper, The Skinner Scoop, which included social notes about students and articles about the social activities of the club. Style shows, card parties, speakers on opportunities in Home Ec were features of the monthly meetings.

Sharrow, Praetz

Geology Club

The Geology Club met twice a month on our own campus and at other times with Smith, Mount Holyoke and Amherst. Field trips aimed at acquainting its members with the technical aspects of geology. Speakers were heard and the students carried on some lively discussions.

Standing: Fiske, Phelps, French
Sitting: Norcross, Miss Davis

CLUBS

Standing: Huber, Fish, Leaver
Sitting: Mr. Hamilton, Kennedy, Graham

Fernald Entomology Club

Named in memory of the Fernalds, who did so much for science on this campus, this organization met once a month to spread information about entomology and to further the interests of its students. In addition to lecturers and movies, members sponsored numerous social activities.

Education Club

Speakers on educational problems and trends were the features of the Education Club meetings this year. In this way the future teachers on this campus made interesting contacts and became better acquainted with the members of their own department. All students taking education courses were invited to participate in the activities.

Land Architecture Club

In operation for over twenty years, this club has been continually successful in fostering technical and social relationships among the students and faculty of the department. Guest speakers, movies, and slides dealing with city and landscape planning were included in the activities.

Toczylowski, Weidhaas

Press Club

Making University publicity available to newspapers throughout the state is the function of the Press Club. Members of the club are the student correspondents to city newspapers and the directors of the Home Town News Bureau who meet to talk over the common problems of press correspondents.

A. I. E. E.

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is a professional engineering society which is affiliated with the Institute of Radio Engineers, thus forming a joint student branch of I.R.E. and A.I. E.E. Outside speakers, usually electrical engineers, were invited to the meetings to speak on subjects covering the entire field.

Standing: MacNiven, Flanagan
Sitting: Suebocki, Thimot

A.S.C.E.

All students majoring in civil engineering may join this student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. Its one function is to promote topics of professional interest. This was accomplished during the year through outside speakers experienced in the field, and also through student papers and student projects.

Standing: Brandt, Tenney
Sitting: Prof. Mohr, Francis

A. S. M. E.

The object of the student branch of the ASME is to broaden the students' acquaintance with the practical side of Mechanical Engineering through speakers from the engineering field who speak on subjects of professional interest. The students also develop expertness in public-speaking, learn parliamentary procedure, and meet fellow engineers.

Standing: Tilton, Orff
Sitting: Prof. Hendrickson, Ganley

CLUBS

Standing: Powers, Fresia, Vanderpol, Grimley, Sileo
Sitting: Curran, Chaves, Dr. Ritchie

Chemistry Club

One of the most popular clubs on campus—with chem majors, at least—was the Chemistry Club, which offered its members a chance to meet and hear authorities in the field of chemistry. In a professional atmosphere these students were able to further their interests and knowledge.

Chemical Engineering Club

A young, but rapidly growing, group met twice a month to promote professional relationships among students of chemical engineering. Their activities included listening to speakers, field trips to plants in the region, and a few social activities. This club also participated in chemical engineering conventions.

Standing: Richards, Sniado
Sitting: Nelson, Bell

Agricultural Engineering Club

Furthering the use of scientific methods in all phases of agriculture is the purpose of the Agricultural Engineering Club. At the monthly meetings, speakers showed slides and movies on such subjects as rural electrification, advanced types of farm machinery and more efficient production methods.

International Club

International friendships are made by the members of this club, who are chiefly the students from other lands studying at UM. Their chief project was the sponsoring of an International Weekend during the college year, when all foreign students from colleges in the area of New England were invited to attend.

CLUBS

Low bridge

Alpha Phi Omega, the campus service fraternity, is made up of former Boy Scouts whose aim is expressed in the motto: "To assemble as college men in the fellowship of the Scout Oath and Law, to develop friendships and promote service to humanity." Members seek to fulfill this aim by aiding, whenever possible, the student body, the faculty, and the University.

The Kappa Omicron chapter of APO is a newcomer on campus. Since receiving its charter last May, the organization has earned an excellent reputation for the many services it has performed for the improvement of the University. The most notable of these was the construction of a bridge across the brook near Alumni Field.

Standing: Taylor, Edmunds, Whitmore, Houston
Sitting: Mr. Gore, Swenson, Jablonka

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Standing: Ashe, Balicki
Sitting: Fucciello, Prof. Robertson

Forestry Club

The club membership is made up of forestry students of both the University and the Stockbridge School. Their exhibit at the Horticulture Show demonstrated correct forest management and showed some of the tools used in forestry. Club meetings were highlighted by talks given by authorities in all phases of forestry.

Standing: Powers, Rosenfield
Sitting: Casper, Stack

Bacteriology and Public Health Club

The Bacteriology and Public Health Club provided students in Bacteriology, Public Health, and Medical Technology with social and professional gatherings once a month. Opportunities in the field and major problems in bacteriology and public health were presented at the meetings by well-known speakers in the various phases of this field.

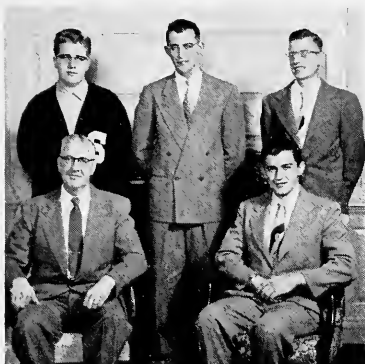

Standing: Carson, Santamour, Sargent, Jussaume
Sitting: Ganley, Mr. Macconnell

Food Technology Club

The purpose of the Food Technology Club is to foster the social and professional interests of all students of food technology. Through social gatherings and speakers, the club is kept active. The Food Technology Club at the University of Massachusetts is the charter chapter of the Institute of Food Technology.

Dairy Club

The purpose of this organization is to provide a common meeting place for the dairy students of Stockbridge and the University, and to widen their knowledge of the field through movies and guest speakers at their meetings twice a month. These students plan their publication and the Dairy Exhibit.

Standing: Gareri, Hayward, Ferguson
Sitting: Prof. Vondell, Brown

Animal Husbandry

The Little International Livestock Show — one of the finest exhibitions of its kind — was among the undertakings of the Animal Husbandry Club. This group also sponsored several square dances and a hayride in the fall. A well-rounded program was enjoyed throughout the year.

Standing: Lamb, Hancock
Sitting: Bradley, Dr. Hankinson

Poultry Science

This twenty-six-year-old club furnished its members with a well-rounded program this year by sponsoring practical business meetings and informal social get-togethers for students and faculty. In addition to its local activities, the club is a member of the National Collegiate Poultry Science Club.

Standing: Gummow, Davis, Benson
Sitting: Williams, Mr. Elliott

CLUBS

Standing: Bottachi, Alden
Sitting: Hampson, Magee, Prof. Thayer

Arboriculture Club

The Arboriculture Club is concerned with studying the care and maintenance of shade trees. This year, representatives of tree companies and chemical manufacturers, as well as members of the Forestry, Land Arch, and Entomology Departments met with the group to discuss problems of arboriculture.

Olericulture Club

The Olericulture Club offers an opportunity for all faculty and students who are interested in producing and marketing vegetables to join in both informative and social activities. Trips to nearby vegetable farms and markets, and assisting with the Horticulture Show kept the members busy.

They topped off their year with an annual spring banquet.

Floriculture Club

The purpose of this club was to provide its members with opportunities to discuss the specialized branches of Floriculture. Vocational ideas were presented and an opportunity was given for people of the same major interest to become acquainted on a social level. A spring picnic climaxed a busy season.

Standing: Brown, Prof. King, Abbott
Sitting: McGrath, Cole

Future Farmers of America

The members of this club aimed to foster interest in secondary vocational agriculture through the National FFA organization. This year they appraised films for their educational value, helped conduct a training school for high school group leaders, and sponsored the state final competition of the high school FFA oratorical contest.

CLUBS

On top of Mt. Toby

has as its purpose the building up of recreational facilities on Mt. Toby for the use of the faculty and the student body. The project committee works in close cooperation with the Forestry, Recreation, and Physical Education departments, and is under joint sponsorship of Adelpia and Isogon. At this time, the completed projects are a lodge for overnight camping, hiking trails, and outdoor fireplaces complete with tables and benches.

M.T.R.P. is open to those interested in recreation, fascinated by the great out-of-doors, or just willing to contribute some of the work necessary to make Mt. Toby the University playground.

Pomology Club

Lectures by authorities in the field of fruit farming and discussions on related topics by students were the result of Pomology Club plans to maintain an active interest in club events this year.

Agronomy Club

Crop improvement practices and their relation to the principal agricultural products came up for discussion at the monthly Agronomy Club meetings. The club program, known as "in service training," consisted of a series of talks by people already prominent in the field of soil conservation and utilization.

Outing Club

The Outing Club, which celebrated its 25th anniversary this fall, is one of the oldest and most traditional clubs on the campus. The objective of the club is to provide healthy outdoor recreation for all students. Hiking, swimming, skiing, square dancing and the annual sugaring-off party were all on this year's agenda.

Standing: Tuttle, Root, Haeseler
Sitting: Dr. French, Atwood

Rod and Gun Club

The Rod and Gun Club is the place for anyone interested in hunting, fishing, and all kinds of wild life. This year its members saw movies and heard speakers in an attempt to learn more about conservation and gaming areas, went on several hunting trips, and sponsored the annual spring inter-collegiate fly casting competition.

Student Wives Club

The Student Wives Club was organized in order to promote friendliness and fellowship. The club met monthly to hear speakers and for social purposes. The members also helped each other to develop useful hobbies in the craft groups that they formed under the leadership of Mrs. Arnold Rhodes.

Friend, Huber, Graham

Standing: Judson, Robinson, Fisher
Sitting: Davis, Miss Hubbard

Physical Education Club

Students majoring in Physical Education received practical information on the field they would be entering. Talks and movies were presented by the club, whose purpose is to enable those students interested in any phase of Phys Ed to get together to discuss common problems.

Nature Guide Club

Under the direction of Dr. William Nutting, the club met at Bowditch Lodge to discuss new developments in nature recreation with those students interested in the field as a profession or as a hobby. A sugaring-off party in the spring was the last activity of the club for the year.

WMUA-FM, 91.1 on your dial

WMUA, the student-operated radio station located in the tower of South College, was officially dedicated on November 8, 1952, as a licensed FM educational station.

Supported by each student through the Student Senate, WMUA is a unique campus organization which affords students the opportunity to meet faculty members who share their interest in radio work.

A general business office is located in Draper Hall and the studio itself is in South College. Recently, plans were made to combine these offices in the new Electrical Engineering Annex to be constructed next fall.

With the addition of FM, WMUA faced an increasing number of problems. Of major concern this year was the fact that many students did not own FM sets. Some converters were built and placed in the dorms to adapt the FM signal, and others are to be installed as soon as they are built.

In its attempt to bring only the best in broadcasting to its listeners, WMUA included tape recordings from the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, a coverage of campus functions and sports events, as well as popular and classical music. High in popularity were the "Crazy Rhythm Show," which featured requests and dedications, and the Saturday evening "Dancing in the Dark," which beamed dance music to fraternity,

4-H Club

Meeting at Farley Club House, the 4-H Club worked to promote 4-H principles both on and off campus. A varied program of movies and speakers attracted both former 4-H members and other interested students.

During the past year, members of the group attended State and National Conferences.

DeMolay

First of its kind in New England, the DeMolay club was organized on this campus in 1948 to provide a means by which high-school members of the Order might further their interest in fraternal activities while attending the U. of M. Field trips to local high-school chapters were the main activities sponsored by this year's group.

McDaniel, Burrows

Chess Club

Not for experts only, the Chess Club invited people interested in learning to play to attend its regular meetings. While new members were taught the opening moves, the top ten players competed in matches against Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and Amherst Colleges, and the U. of M. faculty.

DORM LIFE

Christmas time at Butterfield

This year another building was added to the number of girls' dorms. To celebrate the acquisition of Mills, the new occupants had an open house to show their guests what the feminine touch had done to the old abode. Another thing the Mills women could display (but here they had to share the honors with the Butterfield gals), was the muscles they collected walking up to Butterfield's cafeteria.

The other upperclass dorms had their own special events like the Abbey's "Roaring Twenties" party complete with flappers and Charles-ton. Knowlton won second prize in the Homecoming Weekend float parade. Butterfield copped honorable mention in the float parade, and boasted a Thanksgiving supper in the cafeteria for which all the girls donned their bedspreads and came as Indians, or made paper collars like those of the Pilgrim fathers. Hamlin had a few upperclass women to lend an air of dignity to its mainly freshman clientele.

The traditional rivals, Thatcher and Lewis, were the freshman dorms for this year. Thatcher won the float parade and had the highest average, so its residents had something to gloat about. Lewis girls retorted that their phones were the busiest, and their doorstep the most crowded; but the feud was insoluble, and all in good fun. Some of the bouncy Hamlin girls came up the hill to serenade the freshman fellows at 5:30 A.M. one morning shortly before Christmas, and brought a retaliation raid on themselves, Lewis, and Thatcher that made the upperclassmen reminisce about the panty raids that swept the country last year.

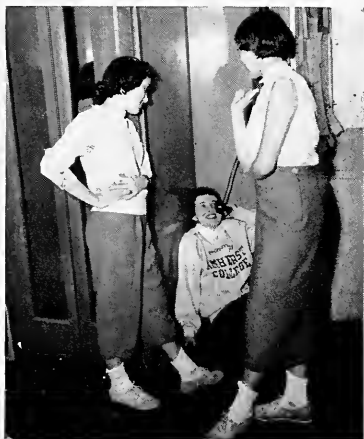

Outside of a few special activities like these, the dorm life was fairly uniform all over campus. They all had their dances, dorm parties, house meetings, and athletic teams — all of which were

"Well, hello-o-o-o!"

"Blind date, anyone?"

"Come up and see me sometime" supported with more or less enthusiasm. At Christmas time this year, along with the traditional party, each dorm adopted a needy family.

An X-ray scanning the rooms in any dorm some evening would reveal: a young lady intent on argyles for that certain man, while the homework lies neglected; a gossip session; a last minute crammer in lonely solitude; last minute cramblers in a crowded multitude; and some unfortunate absent one having her room given "The Treatment" — short sheeted beds, missing furniture, the works! In the rec room and the center are scattered a few bridge players, loafers, and studyrs, and in the office some poor girl on voluntary (in name only) office duty is answering calls and callers. Glancing upstairs again, there is certain to be an irate, drenched wench who has just been told that she has a caller.

In spite of an almost-uniformity, each dorm had its own spirit, and competition had existed between all. The memories of dorm loyalty, friendships, doings, and especially the informal sessions, will live longer than many other aspects of college life.

Close shave

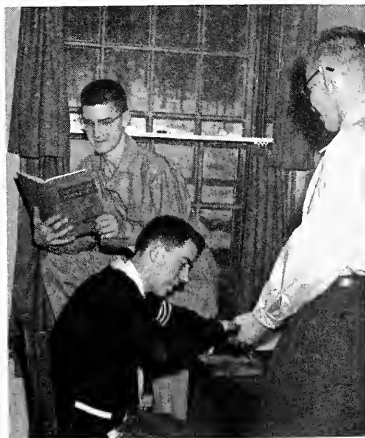

As we, Miranda-like, impatiently prepare to venture forth into this "brave new world," the fascinating world of 1953, with its hydrogen bombs, its inflation, and its "cold" wars, let us glance back for a moment at those noble structures that were to us more than mere physical shelter. For the dorms were not just masses of brick, cement and pasteboard — they were the buildings that witnessed our initiation into the intricacies of college life. But let us not dwell on this rather painful aspect of maturation (for growing pains are a common thing). Let us preserve in our memories the little, human experiences that dorm life afforded us.

Do you remember your discontent with your roommate in the first semester of freshman year? It may have been the over-crowdedness of Butterfield, but you did look around for a camarade d'esprit. Do you remember going down to the cafeteria to study; getting involved in a bull-session that wound up at 3 o'clock in the morning; the sunny months, all too few, when we basked on that luxurious terrace — the inevitable water-filled paper bag? And the mass exodus second semester, when many of us moved over to Chadbourne? — one could stretch and breathe deeply then. Some guys carried over their mattresses; the ones in Chadbourne were a bit thin. Ah, finals week, when we were too young to take it seriously, and caught up on our bridge and whist, although a few cowards did study from four till eight A.M.

MEN'S DORMS

Sophomores — always the wisest of the four classes in the University. We knew our way around then. It was sophomore year we began playing the "hot-plate game" with the housing office...they never knew there could be so many hiding-places in one small dorm room, did they? That was the year we really received the fire-drill treatment. Somehow they don't seem to pull that stuff on juniors and seniors. The religious embassies, remember? Where the firmly convinced affirmed their belief, and the staunchly skeptical affirmed their doubts. Sophomores always argue.

Junior year, uneventful. What could you do in the cinder-blocks, except jump up startled when a door was closed, and sleep with the sound of a ping-pong ball clacking in your brain? The walls were somewhat fragile — a few people leaned too hard. . . .

And then, senior year. Proctors turned "counselors." Returning in the heat of the national election — friendships temporarily broken. November 5, joy or dejection. The Great Foot-Locker Controversy that died out, didn't it?

Well, it's over. . . but before you stick that big toe into the cold seas of life and plunge in, remember, just for a moment. . . they were a good four years.

THE GREEKS

The Panhellenic Council, organ of inter-sorority government and activities, is composed of two members from each house on campus, and is part of a national organization whose aims are to foster high standards and encourage worthwhile contributions on the part of sororities to personal and college life.

The annual activities of the local group include an intersorority workshop, a scholarship tea, and supervision of sorority rushing regulations. During the past year the Panhellenic Council helped such worthwhile efforts as the Blood Drive and the Campus Chest.

Pan-Hell sponsorship of inter-sorority athletics and informal coffee hours at the sorority houses has added to the social life and the friendly spirit on the campus.

The Interfraternity Council, composed of two representatives from each fraternity, is in charge of all inter-fraternity athletic activities as well as the Athletic Scholarship Fund. The Council aims at promoting scholastic standing and encourages a friendly spirit among the fraternities by the organization of activities such as athletics and the events of Greek Week.

The purpose of the Interfraternity Judiciary Board is to develop a spirit of cooperation and good will among the fraternities, as well as to exercise responsible self-government in the enforcement of the regulations of the Student Life Committee.

Many campus organizations claimed Chi Omegas as members during the year. The sorority was well represented in the Drill Team, Naiads, Operetta Guild, Roister Doisters, Chorale, Senate, Scrolls and INDEX, as well as in many departmental clubs and special campus committees.

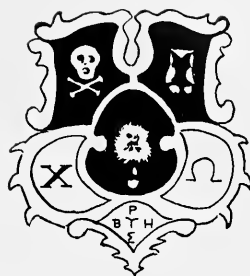

Seventeen fall pledges were honored in January when the highlight of Chi Omega's social season, the annual pledge formal dinner dance, was held at the Hotel Northampton. Chi Omega also held several open houses during the football season, sweater dances during the fall and spring, and exchange dinners with fraternities. The Chapter's new kitchen and dining room were really appreciated during these functions.

The sports program at Chi Omega included football and basketball games with fraternities as well as basketball and volleyball games with other sororities.

Theta has again lived up to its usual high standard of active participation in both social and academic organizations on campus — Isogon, Phi Kappa Phi, Scrolls, Drill Team, and Chorale.

The house social calendar this year included three informal dances, with the year's climax being the gala Pledge Formal. In addition, fraternity suppers, and a children's Christmas party all were enthusiastically sponsored by the house.

Some improvements were made in the interior of the house, and the latest plans include a renovation of the exterior.

On December 13, Delta Nu was honored by many Kappas, including alumnae and national officers, at a banquet celebrating Kappa's tenth anniversary.

Kappa Kappa Gamma served as hostess at a tea given by the Pan-Hellenic Council when they awarded the silver tea service to the sorority which attained the highest scholastic standing.

Much recognition was also gained by many Kappas in Chorus, Drill Team, Cheerleader Squad, Isogon, Scrolls, Judiciary, Winter Carnival Committee, Collegian, and religious and departmental clubs.

Phi Delta Nu celebrated its second birthday this year, and again attempted to advance its non-discriminatory principles. The Phi Delts again distributed Thanksgiving baskets to underprivileged families, and instituted in conjunction with QTV a Christmas party for needy children.

Socially, it was an active year for the sorority, with exchange coffee hours, open houses, and the annual affairs of Pledge Formal and senior banquet. The Phi Delts were also active participants in campus activities, such as Senate, Collegian, Drill Team, and Operetta Guild, as well as in many campus clubs and all inter-Greek activities.

Again in the year 1952-1953, the members of Pi Beta Phi were active in many campus activities. Some of the organizations in which the Pi Phi's took part were Scrolls, Isogon, Chorale, Drill Team, Cheerleader Squad, Collegian, and W.A.A.

It was a busy year for the girls who wear the arrow; and it began with a tea held in honor of Mrs. Baade, the new house mother. The Pi Phi house received a new coat of white paint in time to welcome the freshmen aboard the Showboat, which was the theme of the invitation party.

The starry crispness of a December night was chosen for a hay-ride, and the annual Pledge Formal was held at the Lord Jeffrey Hotel. With the Spring came housecleaning, as the new initiates took over the house for a weekend of work and fun.

Happy days in 1952-53! The Sig Delts have much to boast about. Homecoming week had the girls welcoming back alums to their alma mater at S.D.T.'s open house. Rushing came around quickly this year, and before we knew it, Christmas vacation was over and we were back again. Winter Carnival was soon upon us. Then, the Sig Delts had a sleigh ride and the "never-to-be-forgotten" pledge formal. Soon after, we had our traditional Founders' Day Banquet. Throughout the year, exchange suppers were had with the fraternities. The Sig Delts still ranked tops scholastically with the girls high on the list for campus Sigas can look back with pride on their accomplishments of this year. During the summer, Beta Eta delegation, sent to Pasadena, California, for the National Convention, came back with a silver award now proudly displayed at the Chapter House.

Sigma was well represented in campus activities, her members being in Roister Doisters, Chorale, WMUA, Chess Club, Drill Team, Collegian, and INDEX, as well as on various committees and clubs.

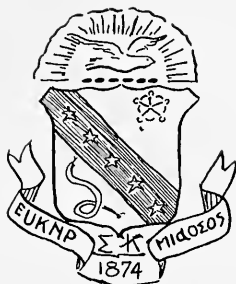

Even as they work on campus, so Sigmas work at home. This year they have been working on a new Chapter Room, painting various national emblems on the panels, making it an ideal meeting place.

As always, Sigmas have striven to live up to their ideals of fair play and friendliness, and will continue to do so in the years to come.

This year found Alpha Epsilon Pi holding its own once again socially, athletically, and in campus activities. Its many house dances proved of great success, and the introduction of skits and other entertainment on Saturday nights was well received. Homecoming Weekend and the annual Military Brawl contributed toward rounding out a well-balanced social season.

Pi performed strongly in athletics. A spirited football team won a third place in competition, and the basketball team was well on top of the league. Pi promises to provide good competition in both bowling and softball since the addition of an active freshman class.

The school year started off with Alpha Gamma Rho completely re-decorating the first floor of the house. A successful rushing program was completed, bringing the total of members and pledges to about seventy.

Social highlights of the year were the Annual Farmers' Frolic, Parents' Day, and the Pink Rose Formal. The social program was completed by the many successful Saturday night dances.

Alpha Gam was well represented on the Senate, the Judging Teams, in the Horticulture Show, and on various campus organizations this past year.

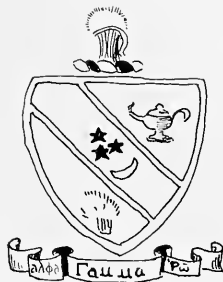

Although all phases of extracurricular activities were participated in by Alpha Gams, they still maintained high scholastic standings among the student body.

With its new faculty advisor, Donald Kinsman, of the class of 1949, Alpha Gamma Rho looks forward to another successful year.

Improvements to the house, many enjoyable social functions, and an outstanding pledge class made this a highly successful year for Lambda Chi Alpha.

Lambda Chis participated in interfraternity competition with keen enthusiasm. The active social calendar included Homecoming Weekend, the annual Christmas and St. Patrick's Day parties, and the fall and spring formals.

Notable personal achievements helped to place the Lambda Chis high in the role of leaders in campus activities. The President and Vice-President of the Senior Class, Cadet Colonel of the AFR-OTC, President and Vice-President of Adelpia, Captain of the track team, Captain of the 1953 football team, and 1952's Man of the Year were all Lambda Chis.

The year 1953 also marked the fortieth anniversary of the local chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha, the event being celebrated by the annual Founders' Day Banquet.

This year Q.T.V. continued its participation in all phases of campus life as it has since 1869.

The members were greeted this year with a new addition to our house which now accommodates 10 additional brothers. This year Q.T.V. held its annual Orphans' Party, entertaining some underprivileged children from the Amherst area. The social activities of the year were highlighted by the Traditional Homecoming Weekend, the Hallowe'en Party, the Annual Lawn Party and the White Rose Formal.

The only sad note was the loss of some of our brothers to Uncle Sam. This year also saw Q.T.V. pledge a large class which it is hoped will continue to uphold the traditions of our house.

This past year the men of SAE again proved themselves to be leaders in all phases of campus activity. SAE's were prominent in varsity sports, campus committees and student government organizations.

During the Spring of '52 the fraternity won first place in basketball. The Purple and Gold also won the Interfraternity sing, bowling, and came in third in softball. In the overall competition, SAE placed a close second.

This past year SAE sponsored some of the best functions of the social season. Among the highlights of the year were the Farmers' Frolic, the January Thaw, the TEP, once again, enjoyed a most successful year on campus. The Chapter house was renovated and redecorated by the brothers at the beginning of the year. The brothers were prominent in every major campus activity, such as Mili Ball, the Collegian, the Handbook, the INDEX, Senate, Football Squad, Dance Band. Socially, the annual "Heaven," "Hell," Homecoming and "Confederate" dances, plus the new "Thug" dance, were highlights of the year. The Annual Initiation banquet-and-ball held in March was the outstanding social event of the year.

A fine class of new brothers was added to the House to insure the continuation of Tau Epsilon Phi's contribution to the University.

The brothers got off to a good start this year after winning first place in the '51-'52 Interfraternity Competition. During the fall, Theta Chi won first place in the float parade and its football team also came through on top. With this record behind them they feel confident that this year will be just as successful, and by the look of the active and ambitious pledge class Theta Chi will have a great team working toward keeping up its fine tradition of leadership on campus. . . . All enjoy the distinctly new atmosphere felt in the "hallowed halls" by the presence of the house-mother, Mrs. Doering; and with Mrs. Pease cooking, the house has really become a home. . . . Remembering the semi-annual Parents' Day weekend, the log cabins in Dogpatch County on Sadie Hawkins day, the beautiful Carnation Ball, the Bowery Ball with its long established tradition, and the spring Mass Grass, we look back on '52-'53 with fond hearts and wonderful memories.

Starting the year with forty-seven members, Tri-Zeta shifted into high gear in the third year of its existence. Members participated actively in all major campus events.

Among its more important activities, Tri-Zeta gained recognition by a well-backed social program and a series of excellent motif parties, among which were the annual "Fall Ball" and "Pago Pago." Members were represented in Adelphia, Maroon Key, Cross Country, Lacrosse, Operetta Guild, the Collegian, and Phi Kappa Phi. The fraternity ranked third in scholastic standings last year, and placed second in the inter-fraternity skits.

Still building for the future, the fraternity hopes to add to its trophy room. Among immediate plans are an increase in membership, the purchase of a new house, and plans to affiliate with a non-sectarian national fraternity.

Starting its first full year on campus, Delta Sig has shown amazing stamina for a new organization. In spite of its relatively few members Delta Sig has participated in all inter-fraternity activities. Many members are active in the Chorale, Collegian, "Campus Varieties," Operetta, WMUA, SCA, and many other campus groups.

Even though the fraternity lacks a house at the present time, and is located at Middlesex dorm, other fraternities have been generous in the loaning of their facilities. The Dean's Saturday and Winter Wonderland parties were held at Q.T.V. and Kappa Sig respectively. The fraternity had the use of the Reeds' house for several other functions, and two open dances were held at Drill Hall.

With the incoming freshman class, membership was doubled and with this influx there is no doubt that Delta Sig will strengthen its position as a youthful, dynamic and expanding fraternity.

The 1952 baseball season was one of the most successful that the Redmen have enjoyed in recent years. The team's statistical record of 12 wins and 7 losses is hardly an adequate gauge of their play.

It seems to have been a case of baseball's necessary supplement to skill — the breaks — eluding the Redmen on the field. However, the season did produce many promising ballplayers for 1953; and among the more prominent of the newcomers were Pedigree, Lajoie, Swanson, and MacKenzie.

The Lordenmen started the season at Storrs against the defending Yankee Conference Champions, U Conn. Erratic fielding and poor hitting resulted in a 5-3 UMass defeat. The Redmen recovered quickly and Spring Day fans at the University watched Bob Kroeck limit the Ephmen of Williams College to a 4-hit shutout while UMass hitters piled up a 4-0 victory.

The team's second win came at the expense of a powerful Boston College combination. Chet Corkum, winner of the Joseph E. Thompson Award, pitched brilliantly to win his first victory. Sophomore Bob Pedegree sparked the timely batting barrage needed to insure Corkum's 5-3 win.

At Nickerson Field in Weston, the Redmen lost their second game to Boston University by a 4-1 score.

Coach Earl Lorden

Chet Corkum won his second game of the year and the first away-from-home game for the University by pitching an exciting 3-0 shutout against New Hampshire.

VARSIY BASEBALL

The next road game, not as fortunate, saw the Lordenmen bow to Trinity by a 2-1 decision in a closely contested match. Our comeback was quick. Visiting at the Coast Guard Academy, the Redmen introduced themselves with a devastating 22-hit attack that smothered the seamen by a 15-3 score. John Pasteris paced the winners with five hits.

Facing highly rated Springfield, the defending regional NCCA champions, Chet Corkum again turned in a splendid performance to lead UMass to a well-earned 6-4 victory.

The University nine then returned to Alumni Field and reeled off their third consecutive win, and win number six, by defeating WPI by a score of 5 to 3.

The Redmen commenced a three-game road trip with a 5-3 victory over Middlebury College. This was followed by an overnight trip to Vermont where the Mass. team played a doubleheader with the Catamounts. The first game found UMass coming up with five runs in the last inning to win, 6-3. The nightcap was another thriller with the Redmen chalking up win number nine by the very close margin of 4-3.

Victory number ten came by virtue of the successful debut of sophomore Hugh MacKenzie who hurled his way to a 3-1 win over Clark.

VARSITY BASEBALL

AIC put an end to the UMass winning streak by edging the Redmen 3 to 2. Bases on balls led directly to the winning runs.

Sporting a 10-4 record, the University now played host to Rhode Island for a doubleheader. The result was an even split, with Rhode Island winning the first, 5-0; and UMass, behind pitcher Don Swanson, coming back to win the second, 5 to 2.

Following the four-game home stand, the Indians took a trip to play Tufts College. UMass appeared to have a 1-0 victory in their possession when Tufts suddenly exploded with two runs for a 2-1 victory. The Redmen suffered their seventh loss of the season at Northeastern, 2-0. Corkum pitched his usual fine game but his teammates failed to render the necessary batting punch.

Commencement Day brought a large crowd to Alumni Field to witness a renewal of the traditional UMass-Amherst rivalry. Senior Chet Corkum made his final appearance his best as he pitched the Redmen to a 2-1 win. This game made an appropriate end to the season.

Tribute must be paid to the consistent spirit of the team and to the outstanding individual performances of seniors Smith, Corkum, Kroeck, Gunn, and Doherty who contributed immensely to form the finest baseball team that the University has developed in many years.

The Little Indians posted a record of three wins and five defeats for the 1952 season. In the opener Massachusetts lost a 2 to 1 game to the Connecticut frosh but came back to take the next two games, 7-6 over Williams and 7-4 over Nichols Junior College. Then they dropped a tight duel with Trinity by a 2 to 1 margin. The Redmen were edged out 3-1 and 4-3 by the Springfield and Amherst frosh in their next two outings. The hitters took over the game with Deerfield which UMass won 10-6. In the finale a strong Worcester Academy team took a 5 to 1 decision.

The University saw the first lacrosse team in its history take the field last spring under the guidance of Coach Ben Ricci. Although the team consisted, in most part, of inexperienced players, it was able to close the season with an impressive record of 3-1-1.

The outstanding play of Brian Toucher, honorary captain, as well as of attacks Dave Yessair and Bill Moffitt, and of midfielder "Bo" White greatly contributed to the team's initial success.

For his splendid work in both organizing and coaching the team, Ben Ricci was named "Coach of the Year."

atic quality of ball throughout their initial five games. Recovery of their full strength and a greater familiarization with the O'Rourke system enabled the team to function as a smooth unit, and to finish with three consecutive victories.

The seasonal record of 4 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie represents the finest won-loss percentage since 1946. With such an auspicious start, Coach O'Rourke appeared to have initiated a newer and greater athletic period at UMass.

The traditional opening game against Bates College was won by a 39 to 6 score. Noel Reebenacker sparked the Redmen offense by completing 16 out of 23 attempted passes, which resulted in three touchdowns. Red Porter and George Howland contributed with several fine runs, and each was ultimately credited with scoring two touchdowns. At this point, things were looking good for the O'Rourkemen.

The second game was a Yankee Conference contest against powerful University of Connecticut at Storrs. After a scoreless first period, the Redmen scored twice and led 13 to 7 at the half. In the third quarter Captain Bicknell and Al Gilmore were injured, and UConn proceeded to score twice. With the score 20-13 in favor of Connecticut, the Redmen drove 98 yards to the 2-yard line but lost the ball on a fumble. This was the turning point of the game, as the home team again scored in the last 40 seconds of the game to make the final score Massachusetts 13, Connecticut 26. Once again Howland and Reebenacker played outstandingly. Howland scored a pair of touchdowns as a result of catching two passes thrown by Reebenacker.

The next game was played at Alumni Field with the Springfield College Maroons providing the opposition. The Redmen scored first when "the Reeb" threw a 36-yard pass to Little All-American Tony Chambers. The Maroon retaliated for three touchdowns while the home team scored once. This made the score 20-13 with playing nearly finished. Reebenacker then threw a long pass to Howland who made a great catch and ran for a score. Jack George kicked the tying point and game concluded in a 20 to 20 deadlock.

With a record of one win, one loss, and one tie the Redmen looked forward to their second Yankee Conference encounter.

At Kingston, R. I., the University succumbed to a powerful second-half defense by Rhode Island. Throughout the first two periods, the pass attempts of Noel Reeb-enacker were consistently completed. However, sparked by Pina, the Ram defense stopped Reeben-acker in the second half and went on to win by a 26 to 7 margin.

stood at 1 victory, 3 losses, and 1 tie, with the final 3 games scheduled against very strong opposition.

The following Saturday the Redmen traveled to Marcus Field in Waltham to play undefeated Brandeis University. The thrice-beaten visitors surprised the Judges by scoring first and often to achieve a 26 to 6 victory. This was by far the best game of the year from the UMass viewpoint. The team passed accurately, blocked sharply, and tackled hard. Don Junkins, Frank DiGiammarino, and Noel Reebenacker were standout performers in these departments.

The final home game of the year was against the University of New Hampshire Wildcats. Again the O'Rourke men performed well and earned a 25 to 13 win. The outcome was never in doubt, as Tony Chambers made two diving catches of Reebenacker's passes to account for a 12 to nothing lead in the first quarter. The Redmen scored once in the second period, once in the third, and then proceeded to make use of substitutes. Tony Chambers was by far the offensive star of the game. The victory balanced the won-loss record

The Redmen achieved their third straight win over Tufts College by a score of 32 to 0 at the Tufts Oval in Medford. The visitors played a vastly superior ball game and the issue was settled very quickly as UMass scored three times in the first few minutes of the play. The game was marked by several innovations of considerable interest. For the first time in history, a UMass athletic event was broadcast over television. In addition, Coach O'Rourke surprised the fans by having lineman George Bicknell carry the ball in an effort to score. Unfortunately, however, he was stopped several inches short of the goal. Don Junkins, a senior, who had not previously attempted to kick the point after touchdown, successfully converted two times. It was indeed a fitting climax to a successful season of football.

Individual honors are bestowed on Coach Charlie O'Rourke for his expert direction of the squad; to Capt. George Bicknell for inspirational leadership; and lastly to the departing seniors who performed so splendidly.

Such athletes as Reebenacker, Nolan, Prokopowich, Demers, Hicks, Adams, Szurek, Howland, Junkins, Benson, and Conway constitute a group that will be difficult to replace in the future.

In 1952, Coach Lew Derby's cross-country team enjoyed another highly successful season, losing only to such powerful teams as Harvard and Yale in dual meets. Most notable accomplishments of the season were a second successive Yankee Conference title and a second place finish in the Connecticut Valley championship.

The Redmen also placed seventh in the New England Intercollegiates. Harry Aldrich completed an-

The Varsity Soccer team, under the tutelage of Larry Briggs, had a mediocre season this year. Their record of four wins, six losses, and one tie included many close games. With a little luck, the Briggsmen might have won a higher percentage of their games. The Redmen wins came over Worcester Tech, Connecticut, Clark, and Boston University. Standouts on this year's team included high-scorer Al Hoelzel, Captain Lapton, Yes-sair, Puddington, and goalie Deans. Puddington was elected captain of next year's Varsity Soccer team, and both he and Coach Briggs are working for an improved club.

The 1952-53 basketball season found the Redmen waging an extremely difficult campaign which was clearly reflected by their record of four victories and 15 defeats. The team, composed primarily of sophomores and juniors, had height but suffered from inexperience. With these factors in mind, newly appointed Coach Bob Curran conducted the Redmen with the intention of molding basketball skill for the future. In addition, Coach Curran effectively instilled a spirit to win which was reflected in an aggressive type of play. Although frequently overpowered by a superior opponent, the Maroon and White were never outfought. In this respect Bob Curran achieved an element of success in his initial year as head coach of basketball.

The first game of the year was played at Northeastern and was won by the Huskies by a narrow 62-56 margin. The Redmen, led by Captain Henry Mosychuk, played a good ball game, but faltered and lost in the final minutes. Encouraged by this performance, Curran looked forward to a possible upset of his former Alma Mater, Holy Cross.

But the University five was completely outplayed before a capacity partisan crowd by the New England Collegiate Champions from Worcester. Displaying great speed and height, the Crusaders won easily by a 76-40 score.

Away from home for their second game, the Curranmen encountered WPI. The Engineers, playing exceptionally well, constructed a solid 76-58 victory. Apparently upset by these decisive beatings, the Redmen exhibited their worst basketball of the year by losing to both Amherst and Tufts by large scores.

Burdened with a discouraging record of five successive losses, the UMass athletes travelled to Middlebury College. Sparked by the lone senior on the squad, Frank Barous, the team played one of their finest games of the year. Despite the effort, Middlebury was victorious by a slender and maddening four-point margin.

After spending the night at Middlebury the Redmen moved on to play the Vermont Catamounts. The "Cats" emerged victorious by a 62-54 count. At this point the University reached the nadir in its basketball efforts. The next four games against Williams, B.U., New Hampshire, and AIC were decisively won by the opposition. Throughout the remaining games of the season, some promise for better things was indicated by the consistent scoring and all-round play of Jack Delehunt, Ed Conceison, and John Howard. Following the AIC contest, the fall semester came to a close and afforded the weary Redmen an opportunity to rest.

Sporting a dubious record of 11 defeats, Coach Curran was faced with eight remaining games. Included were such powerful teams as Rhode Island, Springfield, and UConn. In this final half of the season, the players appeared relaxed and confident; and fortified with these basketball "virtues" of experience, the Redmen commenced to play an improved type of ball.

The University first played host to the Rhode Island Rams in a Yankee Conference game. Throughout the first half the Redmen kept within a few points of their opponents, but the superior Ram offense began to tell in the second half and the game ended in a UMass 88-69 defeat. Bill Stephens, netting 18 points, was high scorer for UMass.

Playing again at the Curry Hicks' Cage, the Redmen took on Springfield College. The pattern of this game was very similar to the R. I. affair as the Maroons won 77-66. For the "hometown" crowd the importance of the game was not in the final score but in the fact that Bill Stephens set a new individual scoring record for the Cage by tallying 37 points. The previous record of 33 was held by Bill Prevey.

After 13 consecutive defeats, the Redmen finally broke into the win column by defeating MIT by a 64-60 score. John MacLeod and John Howard starred for the victors by scoring 14 and 16 points respectively.

Inspired by its first victory, UMass defeated Clark University by a comfortable 79-61 count. Stephens, again the leading scorer with 23 points, was followed by MacLeod with 16 points. Unfortunately, things did not go as well when UMass met the Yankee Conference Champions, UConn. The Huskies entirely dominated the game.

The last home game of the year was against New Hampshire and provided the faithful with an exciting evening. Throughout the first two periods the game was a virtual deadlock. Finally Frank Barous sparked a second-half drive by scoring nine quick points to secure a UMass victory. The set shooting of MacLeod and Stephens was also outstanding — each contributed 18 points.

Get set, men

Since victories seemed to come in pairs, the second win came at the expense of a favored Trinity quintet. With the score 60-58 in favor of Trinity with a minute left to play, MacLeod dropped a set shot to tie the game. Then with seven seconds left, MacLeod calmly scored a foul shot that produced the upset.

The season unfortunately ended on the same note as it started. The Coast Guard Academy defeated the Redmen 64-49.

The 1952-53 freshman basketball team was one of the best that the University has had in many years. The Little Indians won eleven of their fifteen contests and proved themselves to be one of the best frosh teams in New England. Coach Chet Gladchuck's team showed promise of furnishing a great deal of strong material for the next year's varsity team. Among the standouts were Paul Aho, Dick Eid, John Skypeck, Buddy Frye, and Lou Gobielle. These players are expected to play prominent parts for the Redmen in seasons to come.

FROSH BASKETBALL

This year's indoor track season was a very poor one for Lew Derby's track squad. In the three meets held at the UMass Cage, the Redmen were sadly outclassed by their opponents.

In the first meet of the year Massachusetts played host to the University of New Hampshire tracksters, and the Wildcats returned the UMass hospitality by trouncing the Derbymen 82½ to 30½. The meet emphasized the lack of Redmen strength in the weight events. Massachusetts had to concede New Hampshire eighteen points in the weight events before competition even began. The lone bright spot of the meet was the pole vaulting of Fred Law who broke his own school record with a leap of 12½ feet.

In the second meet the Redmen competed against Northeastern.

Once again the team was soundly trounced, and a lackadaisical, apathetic attitude seemed to prevail among the Massachusetts tracksters. Many familiar faces were missing from the UMass lineup; and many veterans dropped from the squad for various reasons. Coach Derby was now faced with the new problem of replacing these men on the squad.

Holy Cross came to Amherst for the third meet of the season and won the meet handily by the score of  $69\frac{1}{2}$  to  $37\frac{1}{2}$ . The UMass squad showed more potential strength in this meet than they had shown all season. At this time, one meet remains to be played. Prospects are not too good for a victory by the Redmen, but if their improvement continues, they may surprise a few students.

Salutes should be given to Russ Briere who set a new University record by high-jumping  $12\frac{1}{2}$  feet in the K. of C. meet; to Harry Aldrich who finished seventh in the ICAAAA meet, setting a new school record in the two mile event; and to Frank Barous, Fred Law, and Al Gilmore for their outstanding work in a losing cause.

The University's varsity swimming team completed a highly successful 1952-53 season. Coach Joe Rogers' squad won five meets and lost three. This record represented an improvement over last season's 4-4 mark.

The Redmen started the season by defeating a strong Boston University team. In the second meet an Amherst College team exhibited too much all-around strength for the Rogersmen. Don Bell took the only first place for the University. Wesleyan squeezed out a close 46-38 win in the next meet, but the Rogersmen quickly recovered and pulled out three straight wins over Tufts, Coast Guard, and Rensselaer. The victory over Tufts avenged last season's heartbreaking defeat.

The Massmen then travelled to Connecticut where their streak was broken by a powerful UConn team. The season ended on a high note with an impressive victory over Worcester Tech.

Captain Dick Cornfoot was defeated only once during the season, but he won his specialty, the 200-yard backstroke, in the rest of the meets. His one loss was the only one Dick ever suffered in intercollegiate competition. Another valuable point scorer was Don Bell, who consistently won first place in the breaststroke.

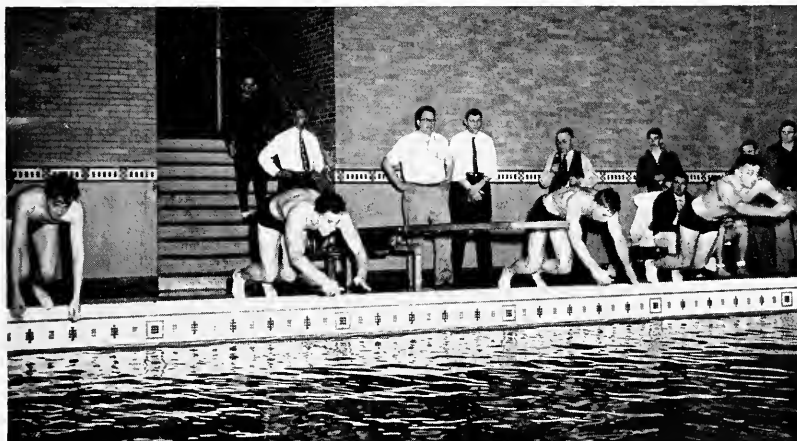

Several of the other swimmers deserving mention for their work in bringing the Redmen their best record of the past few years were Art Steigleder, Joe Rogers Jr.,

The University rifle team completed a somewhat unsuccessful season in the New England College Rifle League, winning only two of its eight matches.

A five-man team was sent to the Hearst Matches and scored a total of 899 points out of a possible 1000. Claude Barrette was high man. In the Intercollegiate Match the team scored 7004 points, and Garry Atwell was high man. Participation in both of these matches was limited to R.O.T.C. students.

The high-fire man for the varsity was Roger Bartels with a seasonal average of 274. He was followed by Paul Durkee, 270.7; Kenneth Alves, 267.8; Garry Atwell, 258.2; and Louis Weinstein, 255.2. High man in the off-hand position was Kenneth Alves. All of these men are eligible for varsity awards.

The University pistol team has a 1-2 record in postal matches to date, and a pistol match scheduled to be fired with Michigan State on March 7, left in the season.

In the U. S. Revolver Association's intercollegiate matches fired each week, the UMass pistol team is currently in 8th place in the country and hopes to raise this position before the season ends.

Captain Kenneth Alves, Roger Bartels, Charles McCarthy, and Joe Rogers III have been firing it out for top marksman during the entire season. McCarthy is presently on top.

A well-balanced Lambda Chi team defeated Theta Chi for the fraternity league championship, while Sigma Alpha Epsilon had to content itself with third place honors.

Tom Cawley, John Howard, and Joe Kobak were the key men of the Lambda Chi attack: Cawley led the hitting attack, Howard performed the pitching honors, and Kobak lent general support in the field.

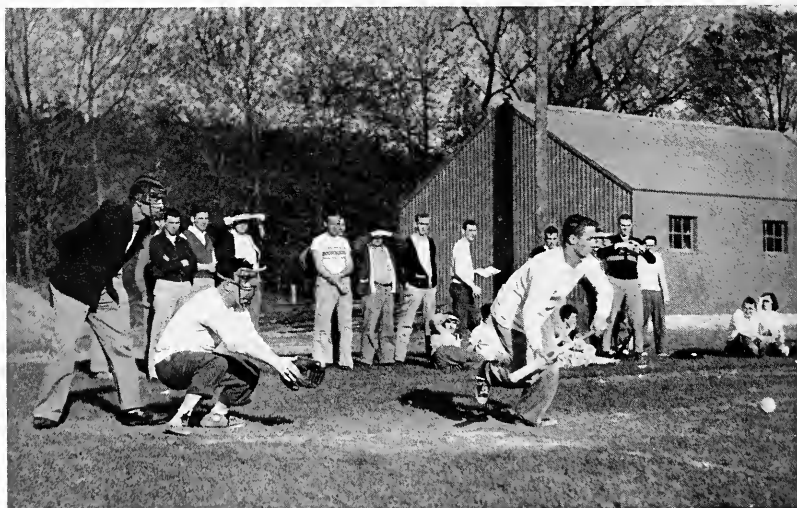

In the dormitory league a play-off game was necessary to settle the issue between Federal Circle and Middlesex teams. The winner, Federal Circle, went on to defeat

Night game

In the dormitory league a polished Brooks A outfit met with stiff competition, and it was not until they had defeated the Independents in a play-off game that they were able to qualify for the championship game.

The fraternity league title was captured by Theta Chi. Although hampered by the mid-season loss of four key players, Theta Chi maintained its hold and finished the season with a near perfect record.

The smooth passing combination of Don Schofield to Fred Kiley was one important reason for the 19 to 6 Brooks A victory over Theta Chi in the final play-off. This victory represented the second consecutive year in which the dormitories had won the league championship.

On February 16, thirteen teams set their sights on the interfraternity bowling championship. Defending champion SAE immediately established itself as favorite by virtue of a 4-0 win in their opener against TEP, but by mid-season AEPi looked like the team to beat. The Pi Keglers set an amazing team record of 1232 pins, probably the highest total in the history of the league. With six matches remaining, AEPi and Theta Chi have pulled away from the rest of the league with 22-2 and 17-3 records respectively. High average man for the league is Herb Sostek of Pi with an imposing 102 average.

As the deadline for the 1953 INDEX approached, defending champion SAE was once again leading the way in fraternity league competition. Dick Torchia, Dick Boutilier, and Paul Ayers were, in large part, responsible for SAE's 7-0 record. Lambda Chi Alpha, led by former freshman star Ed Lally and transfer Gordie Long, was providing the stiffest opposition with a 7-1 record.

In League B the Bullets won all three of their games and led the pack. Football captain Walt Naida, Buster DiVincenzo, and John Pasteris were the key men. Berkshire held second place with two victories in three starts.

In League C the Commuters compiled a string of four victories to hold the edge over the Kobaks.

Naiads is an appropriate name for this U of M organization of mermaids. Their purpose is to further the learning of advanced swimming maneuvers taking mainly the form of aquatic ballet. They have successfully launched and conducted a Junior Naiads program, open only to freshmen, in order to indoctrinate the freshmen women in this type of swimming and at the same time to provide themselves with a corps of more proficiently trained swimmers. All the performances of this organization are student written and directed with the assistance of Mrs. Hibbard, director of swimming in the women's phys-ed department.

The Naiads act as a University exhibition group, providing a water ballet show in the Winter Carnival Program. In May they give another stellar performance in decorative aquatics to round out the Parents' Weekend entertainment.

Senior Naiads under the leadership of Prexy Jane Hartman were: M. Carlson, A. Cotton, A. Clement, J. Cormier, A. Eberle, T. Ennis, E. Gannon, C. Gilman, V. Guettler, D. Hefferan, J. Kettel, A. The Women's Athletic Association's 1952-1953 season was characterized by a growing realization of the need of gearing itself to the largest number of participants in its history. In anticipation of the yet greater enrollment of years to come, the Association's constitution was completely revised to meet present needs and to provide for future expansion.

More obvious reflections of W. A. A.'s growth were seen in the addition of riding and indoor archery to the fall and winter sports programs. Sportsdays in hockey, and volleyball with other colleges followed the second coed Freshman Playday.

The Varsity M Club is an organization composed of men who have won their "M" in varsity sports. The purpose of Varsity M is to "promote fellowship, encourage scholarship, foster social activities and maintain more complete relations between coaches and players." This organization has been a go-getting group since its creation and has proved itself an integral part of the university.

The Club, which is student-sponsored, runs the concessions and sells the sports programs at the athletic events for the benefit of the scholarship fund. In addition, this Club successfully sponsored a campus dance — also for the benefit of the scholarship fund.

To the Class of 1953:

This memorial to your four years in college is a permanent record of some of the most important happenings that have involved your class. It covers in an interesting and competent way the highlights of common experience that you will wish to recall and relive in the years ahead.

Some of the most valuable items, however, you will find between the lines — those important little personal experiences that are not mentioned but which are brought out of the past by a photograph or a line that establishes a connection. Even here your INDEX will serve you.

For most of you, graduation will mark the end of an important chapter. From the comparative tranquillity of these college years you will go out to earn a place in society with what you know and what you can do and with the personal attributes which you have developed.

Your attitude toward life and living is also most important. The world you are entering seems confused; the future is uncertain; the very foundations of our way of life are endangered. It is easy to become profoundly pessimistic, but pessimism seldom leads to anything constructive. It will be a serious handicap to you.

I think the world is always confused. Our way of life is always threatened. The future is always uncertain. Civilization is never static but always moving. The obvious fact that over the years that movement has been forward to magnificent accomplishment is solid ground for a reassuring faith that the people of the world will somehow resolve even the present crises somewhere short of disaster.

The true measure of your success in life will be your contribution to the welfare of society. Your generation is better prepared than any preceding generation to cope with the difficulties ahead of it. There is great need for your services and a place for each of you.

You have our unbounded confidence and our best wishes.

Adelphia, senior men's honorary society, continued to carry on its program of promoting leadership and co-operation among the students on campus. Starting off the year by sponsoring, together with Isogon, the football rallies and float parade, Adelphia did much to enhance the spirit which helped carry the team to its winning season.

Under the sponsorship of Adelphia, the student show, "2000 A.D.," was a successful venture and indicated a better trend in Campus Varieties.

Adelphia also undertook a project which had long been neglected on campus. The organization was instrumental in the establishment of a new student publicity center which is designed to assist all student groups to produce their own bulletins and publicity.

Some of Adelphia's other activities included ushering at convocations, assisting the freshmen with guided tours of the campus during orientation week, and sponsoring the Mt. Toby Project.

Membership in Adelphia is open to nine juniors and ten seniors who are chosen on the basis of their contribution toward the fulfillment of Adelphia's purpose: "To foster and to uphold the highest type of fellowship, ideals, and interest at the University of Massachusetts."

Isogon is the Senior Women's honorary group at the University. Members are chosen annually from women of the junior class at a candlelight tapping ceremony held on the lawn of Memorial Hall in the spring. Isogon members are chosen on the basis of leadership, versatility, and character. The organization, founded at the U. of M. in 1940, works closely with other campus groups to build a better University by encouraging school spirit and unity.

The primary function of Isogon is to serve the University. Under the general term "service," Isogon has sponsored many activities this year. Its first project was ushering for the class of '52 graduation exercises. During the summer, a guidebook for frosh women, Co-Ediquette, was published and distributed.

Returning to school early last fall, its nine members participated in a student leaders' meeting where plans were made for freshman orientation. Beginning with registration, Isogon assisted with or sponsored many activities — opening convocation, football rallies, dances, the annual float parade, the Campus Chest, the Mt. Toby Recreation Project, and "2000 A.D." — this year's Campus Varieties show. Isogon is also represented on such all-campus committees as the Calendar Committee, the University Dance Committee, and the Commission and Constitutional Revision Committee of the Senate.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Juniors

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS
Burns, MacLeod, Lucier, Hefferau

Junior year — the year of the great decision. No more required-for-everyone courses; now only those suggested by the individual departments. The catch: to pick a major field and be satisfied the first time. Freshman and sophomore courses are considered in the light of potential majors as the choice is made. Then, no longer merely a face in a crowded lecture hall, the junior is guided through the intricacies of his department. Its faculty members gradually become his friends and his advisor inquires from time to time about his academic standing.

With his major decided upon, the junior begins to look beyond graduation. What field to enter? Doors to industry, government and teaching can all be opened with a B.A. or a B.S. Encouragement is sought and often found in placement office interviews: continue in your major and hope for the best.

Indecision may color his academic life, but is not carried over into social activities. Members of the junior class direct campus organizations with a professional ease developed by past experience in clubs and on publications. An interest in any of these groups may expose a vocational potentiality and they strive to make the most of it.

Group meetings and discussions present an opportunity to test ideas old and new; the ideas they brought to college and the ones they got at college are constantly evaluated. The professors' dicta are no longer accepted at face value; some independent thinking is done and is cherished as much for the freedom of expression as for the new ideas expressed.

It's a wet day for the Democrats

During this third year spent in an isolated college town, the world, which is all too often ignored in the classroom, sometimes intrudes rather forcefully. This living in two worlds presents its special problems, and the Sunday Times, a substantial link with the outside world, assumes monstrous proportions whether or not it is required reading for a history course. And what does American Prose Fiction have to do with this morning's draft notice? The reconciliation is often difficult, and sometimes seems impossible, but mere "muddling through" may have dire consequences.

Junior Development

"The pause that refreshes"

The junior's vaunted self-assurance is often no more than familiarity with patterns of classes and activities which begin to take on an air of deadly routine. The campus is home and the family domicile has become a synonym for vacation. Everything has been done and seen. The juniors long for release from college and its restrictions and their wish is only a year away from reality.

Sophomores

Longmore, Conroy, Reagan, Mitchell

Pleasantly suspended between the uncertainty of freshman days, and the junior hazard of choosing a major, the sophomores return in September with the campus at their feet. They greet everyone of last year's acquaintances and demand a complete account of the summer — jobs, dates and sunburns. They patiently guide the freshmen through their first week of college life; then their attention is taken up by familiar studies and extracurricular activities.

Poised and self-assured this second year, the sophomores ask only that their required courses be not too dull. The intricacies of registration have been mastered; the sophs know what courses to choose and how to be rid of the undesirable ones. They gratefully accept three cuts per course, then plot to get extras from their Saturday English profs. Some succeed, others overcut; let the Dean's office worry about it. In the meantime, they range the campus, consciously or unconsciously looking for new values to exchange for the old. Campus activities, personalities and studies occupy their attention in turn and are thoroughly scrutinized and evaluated.

But tradition also plays a part in their search for new experiences. They take charge of the Christmas Carol Sing and the Soph-Senior

They're lovely, they're engaged, they use grease paint

Hop as the second-year class perennially does, as much for the sake of activity as to prove that they can do things better.

This is also the great year for extracurricular activities. A position as Collegian reporter is balanced against participation on a Winter Carnival Committee. But the interest engendered by putting out a publication, or playing with a band, often wins out over parental queries as to the meaning of a conspicuously low grade.

On May the fourth of last year an all-campus Women's Convocation was held. At that time outstanding women on campus were recognized for their services. At this convocation fifteen freshman women were tapped for Scrolls, the Sophomore Women's Honorary Society which recognizes leadership, scholarship, service, and personality. The purpose of this organization is to help acquaint the frosh women with college life and help further better relationships among classes.

Prior to initiation the group officially organized with the election of its officers. They elected Annette Beaupre, president; Cecile O'Donnell, vice-president; and Alberta Primo, secretary-treasurer.

In September the Scrolls returned early to attend the leaders' conference and complete plans for Freshman Week. The biggest task ahead was welcoming the frosh women to our campus. The Scrolls worked with the Maroon Key in planning and sponsoring the Freshman Play Day, Picnic, and Square Dance.

In addition to the previously mentioned activities, the Scrolls helped the prospective freshmen to become acquainted with our University through tours of the campus. Several times throughout the year the Scrolls helped Isogon with their activities.

At the end of their first year at the University twenty freshman men were tapped for membership in the Maroon Key for their leadership and service. The chief aim of this organization is to promote good sportsmanship and school spirit both on the athletic field and in school activities.

High on the list of activities of the Maroon Key was acting as host to visiting athletic teams. The group also worked with the Scrolls to plan and sponsor Freshman Week, which began with the annual Freshman Play Day, Picnic, and Square Dance. During their first weeks at school the frosh men were given instructions on the traditions and customs of the University. The Maroon Key also helped the freshmen through the headaches of registration. Climaxing the freshman activities was the annual rope pull.

This year the Key made plans to reorganize its past and present members into one organization. This would enable the present members to function on a larger scale.

Ben Ricci, athletic director and physical education instructor, acted as advisor to the Maroon Key this year.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

Bowers, Sturtevant, Robideau, Canavan

Freshman year in college—what varied connotations that phrase has, depending on whether or not you have yet experienced it. The first break with the past is made, and each freshman is very much on his own — and is aware of it! The past which was a neat pattern of family, school and home town is exchanged for a new and confusing present in which the pattern will not be apparent for quite a while, and the value of which is taken on hearsay. Of course, the past intrudes comfortably on the present through letters, old friends and old habits, but so many new things have to be met and understood. New people, authorities, ideas, all clamor for attention. Even a letter home is hard to fit into the schedule, although sending it is the only way to receive its eagerly awaited reply, which is really valued more for the certainty it brings of there being an unchanging family back home than for news of what the siblings are doing. What is being done here is more important and interesting, for here is the world, waiting to be conquered. Some of the glory is dimmed by curfews and light rules, hazing and upperclass superiority, but freshmen are a confident invading army, demanding to be conquered and initiated into the fraternity of college students and shown the way to wisdom. They may not be quite certain which shrine they will worship at, but they are willing to consider several. Required courses are met, to be passed and be over with; some social affairs are to be attended, and some to be enjoyed. New friends eventually turn into people similar in habits and social position. Housemothers, deans and seniors, once integrated into the freshman's new pattern of living, finally settle down to normal proportions. Then the frosh can breathe, see themselves in perspective and begin to be students.

At vacation time, the past and present exchange places. The freshmen can now talk with authority about their college experiences, precious because feared and faced alone. They are now bigger people in the old settings. At home they are men with advice for prospective freshmen.

Returning to the dorm is now a routine and pleasantly independent experience. But there are still perplexing things which make the freshmen feel inadequate. No one, they feel, could have learned in eighteen years all that is required quering army, confident of being conquered by college.

A Book To Be Treasured . . .

This annual is a permanent record, in picture and prose, of the academic year 1952-1953 at University of Massachusetts. Its value will increase as the years pass, and the quality of the printing will contribute in great measure to its lasting worth.

The Andover Press, Ltd., takes pride in its well-known craftsmanship which, combined with the long hours of careful planning and painstaking editorial work by the INDEX Staff, makes this a book to be treasured.
